U. S. EXPERTS GET SUPPORT ON DEBT PLAN

No Official Opinion Expressed but Attitude at Home Not Doubtful.

OUTLOOK IS BRIGHT
Settlement Would Bring New Wave of Optimism in Money Circles

Washington—Although the United States government is not yet called upon to express an official opinion about the Young plan for the compromise of reparation claims, there is no doubt that the American unofficial representatives at the Paris conference have the fullest moral support in their efforts to reach a settlement.

What Mr. Young has done is solely on his own responsibility and without consultation with the American government, but it is known that in his tremendous task he has the sympathetic understanding of a president and cabinet fully aware of the strain under which the American commission has been operating.

That there should be a measure of criticism from one side or the other is regarded as inevitable, for the conflicting claims are not alone to be considered as much as the effect on a public opinion in Europe which has not been prepared for great sacrifices. The "sinking down" of the original reparations figures, however, has not been a matter of sentiment but of economics. All the allied governments have appreciated the serious situation that would be created for themselves if it was insisted that full payments be made for or that the annuities go beyond capacity to pay.

TO PROMOTE CONFIDENCE
The delicate mechanism of international credit is under a great strain, as it is with the tight money conditions in the United States and with the high rediscunt rates in the central banks abroad, so that a reparations settlement which will carry with it a definite understanding about the exchange problem is expected to bring about a wave of optimism. There are some observers here who feel that the removal of uncertainty about European financial relations will have a direct reflex in increased American trade and that this in turn will provide a considerable expansion for American industry.

The wisdom of the original Dawes-Young plan is commented on here in connection with the developments in Paris, for only by a postponement until 1929 was it possible to familiarize European people with the economic rather than the political side of the reparation problem and though there is much distance to go yet it is felt that the reduction from the original extravagant claims is an achievement to be credited to American foresight and the common sense of the allied statesmen who agreed to the proposal.

Under Mr. Young's leadership there is the greatest confidence here that the new plan will be found equally acceptable and that while it may not settle all points, it will again afford an opportunity to say that the maximum at the moment has been obtained and public opinion can hardly expect more. The awareness of American co-operation is fully appreciated here but it is not a matter for the executive but the legislative branch and only by unofficial commissioners of outstanding ability could the effect of government acquiescence in the delicate negotiations have been achieved.

KOHLER MAY APPROVE HIGHER GAS TAX RATE

Madison—(P)—Gov. Walter J. Kohler is not adamant against an increase in gasoline taxes for a through route hard surfaced road system, he revealed to legislators Tuesday.

While the governor has previously expressed himself as believing that the roads can be constructed from the funds established by the natural increase in gasoline consumption, he informed the legislators that if the preponderance of opinion in the legislature and in the state is that more funds are necessary, he will not veto such a tax bill.

A delegation of between 30 and 50 legislators called on the governor yesterday to discuss with him the Hoelsch highway commission road plan, which calls for a 4-cent gas tax.

The governor was reported today as being unchanged in opinion, but open to conviction that the increase is essential to the program.

ORLEANS HONORS MEMORY OF MAID WHO SAVED FRANCE

Orleans, France—(P)—This ancient French town today celebrated the fifth centenary anniversary of its delivery from the hands of the English by Jeanne D'Arc—Joan of Arc—Maid of Orleans.

Tens of thousands were witnesses to impressive ceremonies divided about equally between religious and civil. President Domergue and Premier Poincare, Marshal Petain and General Gouard and other widely known French figures attended.

The presence of Sir William Tyrrell, British ambassador, in the presidential party, excited much favorable comment among the peasants who remarked that it was against British troops the maid led the French to victory 500 years ago.

A statue representing Joan of Arc receiving the homage of France was unveiled in the gardens of the city hall. Delegates from her native village of Domremy were received by the governmental authorities.

Michaelson Trial May End Today

Government Calls 17 More Witnesses—Defense Has Only One

BULLETIN
Key West, Fla.—(P)—The baggage of Congressman M. Alfred Michaelson of Illinois, was passed through the customs at Key West without inspection when he arrived from Havana on Jan. 2, 1928, on orders from Washington extending him the courtesy of the port, Deputy Collector L. T. K. Braggatt testified today at Michaelson's trial for prohibition law violation.

Key West, Fla.—(P)—Trial of Congressman M. Alfred Michaelson of Illinois, charged with violating the prohibition laws was expected to be concluded here today.

Although the government had 17 more witnesses to be heard, only one witness had been named for the defense, Judge Holstead L. Ritter said he would hold a night session if necessary to complete the trial.

While the government attempted to prove that the congressman brought liquor into this country from Cuba, in January, 1928, interest centered on possible testimony of Walter Gramm, Chicago coal dealer, said to be a close friend to Representative Michaelson. Defense attorneys declined to give any intimation as to Gramm's probable testimony, nor would they divulge whether other witnesses might be called.

Only four government witnesses were heard as the trial got under way yesterday. A large part of the afternoon was taken up by arguments on defense pleas and motions. Judge Ritter refused the defense a plea in abatement, a motion to quash, and a demurrer to the indictment.

Later the court denied a defense motion for a mistrial. Taking of testimony proceeded over an objection by the defense as to the admissibility of the evidence, relating to the alleged discovery of a leak in one of six trunks, which the government charged were brought from Cuba by Michaelson. In two of which it was alleged liquor was found.

The court reserved a ruling on the admissibility, pending testimony by government witnesses that would connect it with charges against the congressman.

Aged Huntress Escapes African Jungle Terrors

New York—(P)—After a series of exciting experiences in Africa during which she narrowly escaped from a herd of elephants, a lion and a rhinoceros, Mrs. Oscar S. Straus, 68, was home today apparently none the worse for her adventure.

Mrs. Straus, widow of the former United States ambassador to Turkey, headed an expedition to collect bird specimens for the American Museum of Natural History. She was accompanied by her grandson, Edward Schafer, Jr., ornithologist at the Carnegie Institute of Pittsburgh, and Mr. and Mrs. Rudyard Boulton. Specimens of 300 birds were obtained and more than 5,000 feet of moving picture film.

After traveling days from Khartoum down the White Nile, the party drove to Uganda in automobiles,

ONE OF SLAIN Faced Trial IN 'MASSACRE'

Police Believe Murders Mark End of Truce in Chicago Gang War

Hammond, Ind.—(P)—A treble murder today ended the brief truce of Chicago's gangland. Three men, identified by newspapermen as John Scalsi, Albert Anselmi, and Joe Guinta were found shot to death on a rural roadside early in the morning and the forfeit of their lives was seen as the retribution of their underworld foes for the massacre of "Bugs" Moran's clansmen on St. Valentine's day.

Scalsi and Anselmi were henchmen of Scarface Al Capone, and the former had been freed under $50,000 bonds only a week ago pending trial as one of the Moran gang executives.

Scalsi and Anselmi, a dread duo of killers with whom police have often had to conjure, were regarded as axes of the Capone staff and their supposed executions today were seen as the stroke of avengers for the seven followers of "Bugs" Moran, the north side chief, who were lined up against the wall of a N. Clark-st. garage three months ago and swept with machine gun fire.

Thrice have Scalsi and Anselmi been tried together for the slayings of two policemen, only to win acquittals because they professed to believe the detective squad that chased them was a squad of underworld foes.

CAR WAS STOLEN
The abandoned coupe was one stolen several days ago in Chicago. License plates upon it were found to have been stolen from an automobile owned by a Berwyn, Ill., contractor.

Many fingerprints were found upon the car, and police believe these will afford them a clue to the slayings.

The same methodical brutality that characterized the septuple murder in Chicago Feb. 14 was observed in the triple killing. Police early today said that one of the bullets re-

HASSELL PLANNING NEW MIDWEST-SWEDEN HOP

Chicago—(P)—Another flight to Sweden from the midwest is being planned by Bert Hassell, Rockford, Ill., aviator, he announced today.

Hassell, who piloted the "Greater Rockford" on its projected Rockford-to-Sweden flight last summer and was forced down in the snow fields of Greenland, declared his next flight would be over a route with nine refueling points. Paying freight or express will replace oversize gasoline tanks which would be required on a nonstop flight, he said.

Hassell predicted that within five years airplanes with "pay loads" will fly regularly between Copenhagen and Chicago. The route from the midwest northeastward through Canada to Iceland and Greenland, thence to the European mainland, is the safest possible to Europe, he said, with its longest stretch over water being only 600 miles.

TEXAS EX-GOVERNOR NAMED TO RAIL BOARD

Washington—(P)—The nomination of Oscar B. Colquitt, former Texas governor, to be a member of the railroad board of mediation, was approved unanimously today by the senate interstate commerce committee.

Report Hits U. S. Method Of Naming Postmasters

New York—(P)—The Postoffice department and the method of appointing postmasters were severely criticized in the annual report of the council of the National Civil Service Reform league which was read at the league session here today.

"The selection of postmasters throughout the country continues to be based on political preference, notwithstanding the pseudo merit system established by President Harding in 1923," the report said.

An investigating committee of the league found that postoffices were filled on a partisan basis although the civil service commission conducted competitive examinations to establish eligible lists from which appointments could be made. Not the person at the head of the list, but the person most favored politically, and in some cases the candidate paying, or promising to pay the most money for the place received the position it declared.

The league asked that President Hoover insist upon the appointment of postmasters from the head of the list. The report also urged that 5,000 positions, now excepted from the law, be placed under the jurisdiction of the civil service by the president.

The executive order of president Coolidge, issued on the eve of the Hoover inauguration, granting preference in appointment to all federal positions to disabled veterans, also was criticized.

"The league believes the new order is most ill-advised and will result in serious impairment of the efficiency of the government service," the report said.

The senate sub-committee was urged to continue its investigation into the federal appointments and the league recommended the "prosecution of unscrupulous political leaders who have flouted the law and who treat the distribution of public office as so much political and personal plunder."

Refuse To Back Down On Tax Bill

Conservative Senators Won't Return Schmiegge Measure to Assembly

Madison—(P)—A decision to refuse to send back to the assembly the Schmiegge inheritance tax bill, which has caused a tie-up of legislation in the upper house since Friday, was reached by a caucus of conservative senators today.

Although the group holding the measure refused to declare officially the stand decided upon, individual senators said the Conservatives were determined the bill should not go back.

Whether the friends of the bill can hold the Conservative majority in line with enough votes to pass the measure and send it to the governor for signature could not be determined. They expect, however, to have sufficient votes to defeat the Socialist-Progressive coalition's demand that it be sent to the assembly without action.

Another Conservative caucus is planned for tonight, after the committee hearing of the bill, to decide upon final action, should the opponents of the measure use the filibuster method of combatting the Conservative's latest move, an indefinite stoppage of senate legislation is predicted. No bills have been acted on since last Friday morning.

WARS ON "SETUPS" IN CLUBS AT CHICAGO

Chicago—(P)—The serving of "setups" of cracked ice and gingerale will not be permitted at country clubs in the Chicago territory nor in private clubs in the city, George E. Johnson, federal district attorney made plain today.

The district attorney outlined his attitude at two meetings, one attended by officials of country and golf clubs, the other for city clubs.

He said he would act under the decision of the federal court in the padlocking of the Chez Pierre, a Chicago night club, in which case the court held that evidence of drinking is sufficient to convict, even though it be shown that the club itself did not sell liquor.

GOVERNOR TOWNER MAY HEAD PORTO RICO U.

San Juan, Porto Rico—(P)—There were persistent rumors today Gov. Horace M. Towner would become chancellor of the University of Porto Rico to replace Thomas Elliot Benner, who was notified yesterday of his discharge.

It was said Governor Towner would relinquish his governorship during a visit he is making to Washington and would be tendered the chancellorship by the university trustees.

Professor Benner's discharge was decided upon by the trustees at a midnight session Monday and was the sequel to political conflict between himself and Antonio Barcelo, president of the Porto Rican senate and president of the Albarza party. The vote from his dismissal was 4 to 2.

MAIL PLANE PILOT'S BODY FOUND IN WRECK

Cheyenne, Wyo.—(P)—Ivan Houston, Denver, pilot on the Denver-Cheyenne air mail route, was found dead amidst the wreckage of his plane ten miles south of here today. Houston had been missing since 7 o'clock last night, when he passed over the local airport. He was unable to make a landing on account of the dense fog.

GIL READY TO SPEAK WITH CHURCH CHIEF

Mexican President Opens Way for Negotiations to End Strife

Mexico City—(P)—President Emilio Portes Gil has opened a door through which diplomatic negotiations for settlement of his country's church-state strife may be approached.

In a signed statement published today he said, "If Archbishop Ruiz (Monsignor Leopoldo Ruiz Y Flores, archbishop of Mexico and leader of the Mexican Roman Catholic hierarchy) should desire to discuss with me the way to bring about cooperation in the moral effort to better the Mexican people which he decides, I shall have no objection to talking with him on the subject."

Archbishop Ruiz recently gave out a statement published in the United States which said "the church and its ministers are ready to cooperate to the fullest extent for the betterment of the Mexican people."

"I was pleased with the statement made by Archbishop Ruiz to the effect that 'the religious conflict in Mexico was not motivated by any cause which may not be corrected by men of sincere good will' and his categorical declaration that 'the Catholic church and its ministers are prepared to cooperate with the Mexican government in every proper and moral effort for the benefit of the Mexican people.'"

MAKES PEACE TALK
"Cooperation for that purpose is exactly what the Mexican government has always desired. I stated publicly a few days ago that in my opinion the Catholic church as an institution was not associated with the military uprising which has just ended in Mexico. I added that many members of the Catholic clergy in Mexico had recommended and counseled respect for law and order. Unfortunately an important minority who represent neither the Mexican nation nor the Catholic church apparently favor violence."

The president then said that although there were no officially accredited representatives of the Vatican at Mexico City, and that although such were prohibited by Mexican law, the government was not barred from exchanging ideas with ministers of the Catholic church or from holding informal conversations with dignitaries of the church as to fulfillment and interpretation of laws applicable to the clergy.

AMERICAN MISSIONARY IS KIDNAPED IN CHINA

New York—(P)—The Christian and Mission Alliance today received word from their mission at Sungtao, Kweichow, China, that the Rev. H. Schwendener of Chicago, had been kidnapped by bandits. The cablegram announcing his capture said that he and the Rev. E. A. Traux of Glendale, Calif., had been attacked on the road and after being beaten and robbed the Rev. Mr. Schwendener had been carried off. The Rev. Mr. Traux was released and returned to Sungtao.

Chinese authorities had hopes that the missionary would be returned safely, the cablegram said. The wives of both men are in this country.

PAPAL MARQUIS DIES AT PHILADELPHIA HOME

Philadelphia—(P)—Martin Maloney, papal marquis and one of the foremost laymen of the Catholic church in America, capitalist and philanthropist, died here today. He was 81 years old.

NO NEW RED OUTBREAKS BY WORKERS IN BERLIN

Berlin—(P)—Protest strikers urged by the Communists upon their workers as a demonstration against the police methods in the recent May day disorders met with little response by the workers during today's funeral of most of the victims of the riots.

The Communist effort to have street car, omnibus and subway workers lay down their tools between 2:00 p. m. and 2:45 p. m. failed completely, according to officials of these companies.

With all sympathy for the families of the dead, it was stated Berlin's workers did not wish to be a party to possible new conflicts. Integrity among industrial plants indicated that the Communist hour strike proposal from 2:00 to 2:45 p. m. met with flat refusal.

Parties Consider Stand On New Tariff Measure

Washington—(P)—A caucus of Republican house members today was called for Friday to determine procedure for consideration in the house of the new tariff bill proposing a revision of import duties on sugar, a wide range of agricultural products and on a host of other commodities.

The call was issued by Representative Tilson of Connecticut, the majority leader, and about the same time Representative Garner of Texas, the Democratic leader, announced that members of the minority party would meet late today to discuss their position on the measure.

Garner and other Democrats have declared opposition to suggestions from Republican sources that the bill might be called up under procedure limiting the offering of amendments. The Texas holds all members should be given opportunity to propose changes.

Meanwhile, members were poring over the 35,000 words contained in the new bill. Many giving particular attention to schedules affecting products of their district. Among the schedules coming in for most discussion were those of sugar, textiles and farm commodities.

The possible political and economic effects of the new tariff bill were being gauged today by leaders of both parties on Capitol Hill.

Such tariff experts of the minority as Representatives Garner, of Texas, and Hull of Tennessee, and Senator Simmons of North Carolina, were carefully studying the document preparatory to general and specific onslaughts.

Some members of the majority party also voiced dissatisfaction with various proposals in the measure, including the duties on lumber, iron and cement and bark and maple lumber, all of which now are on the free list.

Those issuing statements on the subject included Representative Ramsey of Iowa, a Republican of the ways and means committee, and Hanger of Iowa, chairman of the agricultural committee.

New Faction War Breaks Out In China

Canton, China—(P)—Factional warfare between the provinces of Kwangsi and Kwantung in south China was in full progress today with the important city of Canton threatened with capture by the Kwangsi group.

The overnight chance from peace to war has resulted in the flight of thousands from Canton to Hong Kong while the Nanking government central bank notes, already 25 per cent under par were still falling here.

Behind the present warfare lies the struggle between the Nanking or Nationalist central government and the Kwangsi military clique as well as a more centralized rivalry between the provinces of Kwangsi and Kwantung.

The Cantonese are feverishly mobilizing troops and pouring them westward to oppose the advancing Kwangsi forces and a clash was expected in the Shunghing area only 50 miles from Canton.

The Canton military generalissimo has proceeded to the front while the admiral of the Cantonese fleet has ordered 20 gunboats to steam up the west river to Shunghing to assist in the defense of Kwantung.

The Canton aerial squadron consisting of 12 planes equipped with machine guns and bombs also was sent to the front.

The loyalty of the Canton navy and air forces to the pro-Nanking element of the Canton government has been questioned.

CANADA PONDERES U. S. TARIFF BILL

Eastern Milk and Cream Producers to Feel Greatest Effect, Belief

Ottawa—(P)—Canadian parliamentarians today said the milk and cream producers of the eastern provinces probably would feel the greatest effect of the new United States tariff bill now before congress.

Should the bill introduced in the house of representatives yesterday become law in its present form, however, officials said that industries the full length of the border would be affected, as the schedules on cattle, hogs, lumber, shingles, wool and flaxseed are increased. The tone of government leaders, however was optimistic.

Increases in duties on shingles and cedar lumber would be felt by the province of British Columbia while Ontario would be hit by higher hardwood schedules, leaders pointed out. Fruit growers and farmers said they are inclined to disregard the increase in flaxseed and other grains, explaining that these products are sold on a world market basis and the prices would not be affected by the United States tariff.

Members of parliament from the dairy districts of Quebec, while admitting that the duty on cream and milk looks dangerous to their industry, called attention to the fact that the McKinley-McCumber tariff took those products off the free list, but that after the present rates were imposed the exportation of dairy products into New York state increased steadily.

HARVARD STUDENT SLAIN ON CONNECTICUT FARM

Windsor, Conn.—(P)—William Treadway Huntington, a junior at Harvard university, and the son of Mrs. Mary Clark Huntington and the late Henry A. Huntington, was slain some time after midnight last night. His body was found this morning with a bullet wound in his head, in a lot about a quarter of a mile from the campus of the Windsor water works on a large compound known as the Murphy farm, which was the boyhood home of Gov. John H. Trumbull.

The body was found 15 feet from the highway, lying flat on the back and the hands folded.

No motive could be determined. A diamond ring was on the young man's hand. There was no weapon in the vicinity.

CLAUSE KEPT BY MAJORITY OF 3 BALLOTS

Vote Is 47 to 44 With Thirteen Republicans Voting With Democrats

AGAINST HOOVER STAND

Blaine and La Follette Among Independents to Support Debenture

Washington—(P)—The senate over-rode the wishes of President Hoover today and voted to retain the export debenture plan in the farm relief bill.

A combination of Democrats and Republican Independents defeated a move by administration leaders to eliminate the plan voted into the farm bill by the senate agriculture committee.

The farm bill itself still is to be voted upon. The vote was 47 to 44.

The debenture plan would provide for the issuance of certificates to exporters of surplus crops in an amount equal to one half the tariff on the crop exported.

In the case of cotton, on which there is no tariff duty, the debenture rate would be 2 cents a pound. Debenture certificates would be accepted for cash in the payment of import duties.

The debenture section would give the proposed farm board the option of levying the plan. It would not compel the board to do so.

RATES GRADUATED

A graduated reduction of debenture rates would be provided for whenever over production is shown to exist. The plan would require the farm board to estimate the debenture provision. Only two Democrats voted with the Republican administration group.

Those voting for retention of the debenture were:

Republicans—Blaine, Borah, Brookhart, Frazier, Howell, Johnson, La Follette, McMaster, Norbeck, Norris, Nye, Pine and Schall—13.

Democrats—Ashurst, Barkley, Blair, Blanton, Broussard, Cawaway, Connally, Copeland, Dill, Fletcher, George, Glass, Harris, Harrison, Javies, Hayden, Hefflin, McKellar, Overman, Pittman, Robinson of Arkansas, Sheppard, Simmons, Smith, Steak, Stephens, Swanson, Thomas of Oklahoma, Trammell, Tydings, Tyson, Walsh of Montana, Wheeler—24.

Those voting to eliminate the debenture were:

Democrats—Randall and Wagner

Republicans—Allen, Finckham, Burton, Capper, Crenshaw, Cutting, Dale, Deenen, Eiler, Fess, Gillett, Glenn, Goff, Goldsborough, Gould, Greene, Hale, Hastings, Halford, Hebert, Jones, Kean, Keyes, McNary, Metcalf, Moses, Oldie, Patterson, Phipps, Reed, Robinson of Indiana, Sackett, Shortridge, Snow, Steiwer, Thomas of Idaho, Townsend, Vandenberg, Walcott, Warren, Waterman, and Watson—12.

SEVERAL PAIRED

Of the four senators not voting two favoring the debenture, Slupstead, Farmer-Labor, Minnesota, and Kendrick, Democrat, Wyoming, were detained on account of illness. Senators King, Utah, and Wash. Massachusetts, Democrats, however, who were against the debenture were paired with the absentees and did not vote.

Just before the debenture vote the senate included products manufactured from raw cotton and tobacco under operation of the debenture provisions. This proposal was sponsored by Senator Tyson, Democrat, Tennessee.

Inclusion of the debenture section complicates the enactment of agricultural legislation in view of the strong opposition to the proposal by both President Hoover and the house. That branch of congress previously decided overwhelmingly against it.

After the farm bill is passed, the debenture section will be discussed by a conference of senate and house committees where administration leaders are convinced that it will be eliminated. What the senate's attitude then will be is a matter of some concern to those desiring early enactment of a farm measure.

County Rural Residents To Gather Here On Friday

PUPILS WILL TAKE PART IN TRACK MEET

School Board Convention and Music Clinic Also on Program for Day

Plans have been completed for the program Friday which is expected to attract thousands of rural school board members, pupils, teachers and parents to Appleton.

Three major events have been scheduled for the day. They are the annual rural school board convention, the seventh annual county track meet, and the rural school music demonstration.

The school board members are expected to gather at Wilson Junior high school at 9 o'clock Friday morning to register. The program will be opened at 9:15 by A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools, who will talk on Supporting a County Program of Education. Following this address Gus Sell, county agricultural agent, will give a talk on the Educational Value of 4-H clubs. Miss Marguerite Lison, executive secretary of the Wisconsin Association for the Disabled and director of special education for crippled children with the state department of public instruction, will discuss Helping the Disabled.

George S. Dick, state rural school supervisor, will give the feature address of the school board convention at 10:30. He will talk on The State and Education. After this the parents will go to Pierce park where the children and teachers will eat a basket lunch.

WILL PRACTICE

At 10 o'clock the rural students of more than 30 schools, totaling between 1,200 and 1,500 will gather at Lawrence Memorial chapel for the single rehearsal for the music program which will be presented at 1 o'clock. Dr. Earl Baker, head of the public school music department, with the aid of Misses Lorene Fredrickson and Cary Short, rural school music supervisors, will direct the music program.

This is perhaps the first time in the history of the state, and probably the nation, that such a large group of rural school students have been brought together to present a musical program of this nature.

The introduction of music in the rural schools this year was made through a plan devised by Dr. Baker and Mr. Meating and the presentation of the music program is expected to demonstrate the success of the plan in which the rural school music plan has been adopted.

Presentation of the music program will take place between 1 and 2:30 o'clock.

At 2:30 the pupils and teachers and parents will be dismissed and they will go to the Wilson Junior high school athletic field in the west end where the track meet will be staged. Winners of first places in eight district contests staged this week will compete in the county contests.

Following its usual custom the Appleton Post-Crescent will award three loving cups to the school and the individual boy and girl making the best records at the meet. Medals will be awarded to winners of first, second and third places in each event. The medals and cups are on display in the show windows of the C. H. H. Hardware store.

FIVE CONTESTS

There are to be five contests for boys and five for girls as follows: boys—chinning the bar, 100-yard dash; standing broad jump, running broad jump and base ball throw for accuracy; girls—balancing test, 75-yard dash, standing broad jump, baseball throwing for distance, and basketball throw for distance.

Eight district contests were held this week at which district champions were chosen in each event. These district champions will compete here. In the event the winner of the district contest is unable to attend the meet here the winners, of second place are allowed to partake as alternates. Thus there will be 30 boys and girls entered in the meet here Friday afternoon.

When the pupils and teachers go to the track meet the members of the school board will resume their sessions with a "question box session." Members of boards will be allowed to present questions on topics pertaining to their work and these will be answered and discussed.

CONSIDER SITES FOR AIR BASE ON PACIFIC

Washington—(AP)—A board of five naval officers to investigate sites suitable for the establishment of a navy airship base on the Pacific coast, as provided by a congressional act enacted during the last session, was appointed today by Secretary Adams. The new board will restrict its investigation to the Los Angeles San Diego area.

Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the bureau of aeronautics, was appointed its chairman. Other members are: Rear Admiral Joseph M. Reeves of the U. S. Navy general board; Commander Garland Fulton, in charge of the lighter than air division of the bureau of aeronautics; Lieut. Commander Charles E. Rowdahl, in charge of the rigid airship training and experimental squadron and Lieut. Commander E. L. Marshall, first naval district, Philadelphia, Pa.

HIGH SCHOOL ATHLETE DIES WHILE TRAINING

Laurel, Miss.—(AP)—Tory Round, 19-year old Laurel high school boy had just completed the 440-yard dash in 55.8-10 seconds here yesterday when he dropped dead from heart trouble. He was trying out for a state track meet to be held this week.

The United States no longer is a country where you "can't put a million dollars in jail." The picture shows Harry F. Sinclair arriving at the Washington, D. C., jail preceded by his brother, A. W. Sinclair. The millionaire oil man begins a 90-day sentence for contempt of the United States Senate in refusing to answer questions when the Senate was investigating the Teapot Dome oil leases. The picture was shot under difficulties of rain and darkness.

Football Hero Killed In Playful Fight For Gun

New York—(AP)—Edwin Hill, star halfback of New York university's great football team of last fall, was shot and killed last night in a playful struggle for a policeman's revolver.

The shooting occurred outside a police booth near the college campus, a favorite congregating place for the students. The patrolman, Joseph Green, was absolved of criminal blame by District Attorney John R. McGehean of Bronx-co but was suspended from duty.

Green said Hill and John Buggan, a former N. Y. U. guard, had stopped at the booth to talk to him when Hill spied two girls strolling down

Sinclair To "See" Races Over Radio

Millionaire Oil Man Serving Sentence Has Five Colts in Race

Washington—(AP)—Harry F. Sinclair, registered pharmacist, settling rapidly into the jail life he will live until mid-summer, looked forward today to the privilege of listening over the radio Friday while one of his thoroughbred pets carries his racing colors into an American turf classic.

The multi-millionaire oil man, who Monday began serving a 90-day sentence for contempt of the senate, has seldom missed being in his box for the running of an important race in which he had entries, and in the Preakness he has five colts nominated, with Mel Foo and Leucite expected to start. But he will see that race only through the eyes of a radio announcer and then by permission of his jailer and because of his good fortune to have studied pharmacy in his youth.

Warden Peak explained that workers in the jail often listen in on the radio to baseball games and other major sports events and said that no objection would be made if the oil man joined them Friday and again the Saturday when the Kentucky derby will be run.

Today the celebrated prisoner was able to go about his duties with the newspaper spotlight turned not so directly upon him, as it has been recently. It was turned aside by order of George S. Wilson, director of public welfare, who has barred all newspaper men from the jail temporarily because he said they were interfering with the routine of the institution. He refused to say how long this rule would be maintained but in the meantime Sinclair was able to go about his activities as pharmacist and assistant to the prison doctor without the eyes of the world following him.

Yesterday he assisted in the dressing of a minor wound on a prisoner and found time between work and straightening up his private shelf to strike up an acquaintanceship with a race horse bookmaker. He will not be permitted to see callers except on Sunday's but his attorneys may call at any time, and Warden Peak said that his mail would not be examined.

6 MEN, 2 WOMEN ARE FINED AT FOND DU LAC

Fond du Lac—(AP)—Pleading guilty to violations of the prohibition laws, six men and two women were assessed fines totaling $1,400 and given alternative jail sentences aggregating 17 months, in circuit court here Tuesday.

Constable Finds Tractor Stubborn As Any Mule

Evansville, Ill.—(AP)—It could be written this way: "Constable George Harrison went for a ride about town yesterday in a tractor." But that isn't the half of it.

The constable specializes in replevins. His job yesterday, it so happened, was to replevin a tractor.

He had never driven a tractor, but he once pumped the pedals for the family sewing machine, so it ought to be easy.

He got the tractor going. So smooth was his progress to town that the constable began to feel thoroughly satisfied with himself. Glancing ahead, he saw a traffic signal turn red. This was a contingency that had not occurred to him. He pulled a few levers and pushed a few dinges, but the tractor moved steadily on.

Two motorcycle policemen came bearing down on the constable and his untractable tractor. They told him to pull over to the curb.

"I would do no good," said Constable Harrison, "and it would be fatal to the curb. What I need is information on how to stop this thing."

No one seemed to know, so the tractor moved sedately along, now

CROWDS IN FRENZY OVER KOVNO AFFAIR

Lithuanian Opposition Leader Blamed for Attack on Premier

Berlin—(AP)—Telegraphen Union reports today from Kovno, Lithuania, said that speakers among them the chief of the press section of the foreign office, worked crowds yesterday into seething excitement in protest at the attempted assassination of Premier Augustinas Waldemaras Monday night.

The speakers expressed the belief the assault on the premier was the work of followers of Colonel Plekakis, a Lithuanian opposition leader who has been accused of seeking Polish support. A boycott on the Social Democrats party, which it was charged, was in collusion with Plekakis, was urged.

The government newspapers manifested indignation. The opposition press confined itself to a bare statement of the facts of the assault. Dispatches from Riga said the young nephew of Premier Waldemaras, who was wounded when the shots were fired, died yesterday afternoon. Neither of the two others wounded was regarded as seriously injured.

Mrs. Waldemaras was quoted as saying the shots were fired from a distance of one meter—slightly more than a yard.

CONGRESS MEMBERS TO ASK FLOOD AID FUNDS

Washington—(AP)—Mississippi valley members of congress will go to President Hoover tomorrow with their appeal for administration support for emergency flood control legislation.

A delegation from the house will join the bi-party committee named by the valley senators last week. Legislation to make available the remaining $4,500,000 of the $5,000,000 emergency levee fund voted a year ago will be sought to reimburse the levee districts for construction of levees now threatened by new outbreaks.

Another bill urged by the congressmen is one by Senator Robinson, Democrat, Arkansas, to provide federal compensation for land taken over for floodage purposes on spillways.

Senator Robinson is chairman of the senate committee which will carry the flood relief appeal to the White House, and Senator Watson of Indiana, the Republican leader, is a member.

Hoover's oil conservation policy today was postponed indefinitely. Chairman Norris of the committee deferred the meeting until the senate gets through its work on the farm relief bill.

Six thousand persons with knives and missiles fought over an area of two square miles, the police finally dispersing the rioters with bayonet and sword charges. One was killed and several were injured. The trouble was said to have started when the Hindus played music near a mosque.

400 CHILDREN OF PUBLIC, PAROCHIAL SCHOOLS IN CHORUS

Remarkable Demonstration of Mass Singing at College Chapel

Joining the voices of 400 school children from all the 11 public and parochial schools in the city, a feat which has never before been attempted in this city, a program of vocal music of exceptional quality was presented before a capacity audience at Lawrence Memorial chapel Tuesday evening. The performance was the second one of the Music Week schedule.

The major part of the program was the two part cantata, "Rip Van Winkle," artistically presented by 400 fifth and sixth grade pupils of all schools in the city. The catchy and tuneful songs were beautifully sung, the attacks, releases, dynamics, and shading all showing remarkable interpretation. The children were dressed in costumes representing the groups who lived in the Catskills in Rip's day. The songs included "The Village in the Mountains," "Rip Van Winkle and His Dog, Wolf," "Rip Van Winkle and the Mountain Man," "The Magic Flagon," "Rip Van Winkle's Search for His Friends," "The Legend of the Mountains," Dr. Earl Baker was in charge of the program, and Miss Irene Bidwell was accompanist for the cantata.

The first part of the performance was given by the Junior High school mixed chorus and the Junior Boy Choir, the two groups which sang at the National Music convention in Milwaukee in April. The mixed chorus gave a demonstration of the work done daily in the junior high schools under the direction of Dr. Baker and Miss Bidwell. They sang "Cape Cod Chantey," "Venetian Love Song," "Lift Thine Eyes," and "On the Road to Mandalay." The Junior Boy choir sang "In the Hour of Prayer," "Song of the Desert," "Golden Slippers," "Santa Lucia," and "Close of Day." The intonation and balance of parts were perfectly done, and showed the results of constant training.

Melvin Mohr, a student at Wilson junior high school sang "Vale," a popular concert number for male voices.

How To Play Bridge

BY MILTON C. WORK

MR. WORK'S POINTERS ON AUCTION BRIDGE

Mr. Work has prepared a booklet giving detailed information concerning the correct way to play Progressive Auction Bridge. This booklet will be sent to all readers without charge. Mr. Work will also answer without charge any Bridge questions. Requests must be accompanied by an addressed, stamped, return envelope, and addressed to Mr. Milton C. Work care of this newspaper.

Continuing the series of "Misplaced Hands I Have Met," we have today the following case of attempting a hopeless finesse.

THE CORRECT PLAY

After winning the first trick, Declarer should have led two rounds of trumps, winning the second in dummy. Then he should have led a small Diamond from dummy in order to make an extra trick if East held the Queen; if West held it, this play would not gain anything, but it would not cost anything either. The lead of the Jack of Diamonds by south was the hopeless finesse because Declarer did not have the Ten in either hand.

When leading a high card for a combination finesse (that is, with the idea of passing it if second hand does not cover), an essential for the success of the play is for Declarer to have in one of his hands the card immediately below the card led. With the Ace in one hand do not lead the Queen from the other, unless you have the Jack; and for the same reason do not lead the Jack for a finesse unless you have the Ten.

"They're all good cigarettes, chief—but this one is a pippin"

115 B & O MEN TEST 4 LEADING CIGARETTES

"Why should I change?" says the average smoker, when someone suggests another cigarette.

"I'm used to my brand . . . and it's a good smoke."

Of course it's good. Not even Old Man Habit can hold a smoker to a poor smoke. But being used to an old thing often keeps a man from getting acquainted with a better one. That's the reason for these "concealed name" cigarette tests now going on all over the country. To give a man a chance to find out, on the level, which cigarette his taste really does like best.

Look what happened at the Mt. Clare shops of the B & O in Baltimore, the other day. Most of the fellows there had been smoking that old favorite (let's call it Brand Y) for years. But when Chairman of Machinists, James E. Poulton, handed out the four leading cigarettes with paper "masks" over the names, 57 out of 115 picked OLD GOLD as the best cigarette. It was a walkaway for OLD GOLD!

"That only proves," said a chief mechanic, "that a fellow misses a lot if he gets too set in his ways."

EXPERTS CALM DURING TALKS ON DEBT PLAN

Conferences Contrast Sharply With Ire Shown in London Dispatches

Paris—(AP)—Private talks between the reparations experts concerning the proposal for settling the German reparations problem, made by Owen D. Young, went on this morning in a calm that contrasted strikingly with the exasperation shown in London dispatches over the suggestions of the chief American delegate.

The British delegation was asked this morning if there was any prospect of an ultimatum to Mr. Young or a sudden break in the negotiations, as had been intimated in press dispatches from London.

"All that is ridiculous. We are studying the question without excitement. There may be something to be said before the end of the day," was the reply.

Mr. Young's explanatory memorandum, setting forth his views on the reparations problem, has been forwarded to the creditor nations that they change the percentages in the partition of reparations to suit themselves, is now in the hands of all the delegations.

The text of the German conditions on acceptance, which was promised for today, is still being withheld. According to the best information that may be had, the text of the day. There seems to be a feeling on the part of the German delegation that there is no reason for producing it.

It was declared this morning at German headquarters that the delegation had never been asked for it. This does not agree, however, with previous information from an equally reliable source.

RUMORED NEW TEXT

It was reported in the lobbies of the Hotel George V, headquarters of the Second Dawes committee, all yesterday afternoon that the Germans were preparing a text of their reservations. It was even reported at one time that the text had been delivered.

In the evening some of the experts declared that Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, chief German delegate, would bring forward his reservations today. But the experts waited all this morning in vain. Dr. Schacht did not appear at the hotel and at the headquarters of the German delegation, it was said that the Germans had expressed themselves on Mr. Young's proposals just as the other experts had. They supposed that when all the delegations had taken their positions, some sub-committee would take up the matter which would then be thrashed out by common consent.

THE BARONET'S CONFERENCE

After many violent fluctuations indicated stormy weather early this afternoon, and the attitude of some of the delegations showed that trouble was apprehended. The claim of the British and the American was, however, somewhat reassuring.

The Appleton delegation will meet at Conway hotel at 4:30 Thursday afternoon and drive to Waupun.

FIRE CAUSES $3,000 DAMAGE ON BEYER FARM

Shiocton—Ten tons of hay and five hundred bushels of oats were destroyed in a fire on the farm of Frank Beyer, one mile southeast of Shiocton, at 4:30 Tuesday afternoon. No one was at home when the barn and silo burned. Fire was discovered by neighbors who summoned the village fire department. The damage amounted to $3,000. Fourteen head of cattle in the barnyard were slightly injured by heat from the flames.

The rate of pay for the period of the contract will be $16.50 an hour. The contractors sought a five-year agreement which would carry them over the world's fair period, but this the painters refused.

Heavy to killing frost was reported in the western lake region this morning. Continued fair weather is expected in this section tonight and Thursday.

Parties Consider Stand On New Tariff Measure

culture committee, Representative Fear of Wisconsin, a Republican Independent, assailed the increased duties on sugar as indefensible.

Praise of the measure was voiced by Representative Tilson of Connecticut, the majority floor leader; Chairman Snell of the rules committee which will report a rule to govern consideration of the measure in the house, and Chairman Hawley and other Republicans who took part in framing the measure.

As study and discussion went forward at the capitol, there was conjecture as to how President Hoover would view the bill in the light of his expressed desire for a "limited" revision of customs duties with the lesser rates left for the tariff commission to consider.

While Chairman Hawley estimated that the actual changes in protective rates would not exceed 20 per cent of the total dutiable items, only one schedule, that dealing with tobacco, was untouched, while an entirely new schedule was created embracing manufactures of artificial silk, officially termed "rayon" in the bill.

One surprising development was the action of the committee in reporting out an entirely new bill as a substitute for the Compensating Tariff Act. Unless the senate finance committee completely rewrites the house measure, as it usually does, every commodity embraced in both the dutiable and free lists would be open to debate and amendment on the senate floor.

To avoid such a contingency, President Hoover suggested, informally at least, that no general tariff revision law be placed before congress, but that a bill in the nature of an amendment to the existing act be reported.

Chairman Hawley and his Republican colleagues of the ways and means committee contend that a whole new statute is necessary to simplify administration at the customs house. They do not subscribe to the theory that the senate of the United States will be able to keep the special session going far into the summer with debate on the bill.

The ways and means Republicans met the specific request of the president for reorganization of the tariff commission by providing authority for him to terminate the terms of office of the present six commissioners at his will by the simple process of sending the names of their successors to the senate for its advice and consent.

ONE MORE NUMBER

The recreated commission would be composed of seven members, instead of six and the president would be unrestrained in his selections so far as political affiliations of his appointees were concerned. Under existing law not more than three commissioners may be of the same political party.

Salaries of the commissioners would be advanced from $10,000 to $12,000 and their terms of office would be for seven years instead of twelve as at present. The commission secretary would be paid at the rate of $7,500 annually.

The president would designate the chairman and vice chairman and the commission would have the broadest powers to conduct investigations at home and abroad, with power to issue subpoenas on home soil for American citizens. "Disobedience" to subpoenas in such cases would be reported to the courts which would be given power to punish for contempt.

ARRANGE PLANS FOR TEACHERS' CLASSES

Sunday School Leaders to Study College Extension Courses

Plans for a training school for Sunday school workers which will open Oct. 1 and continue for 10 weeks as an extension division of the religious work department at Lawrence college were discussed at a meeting of the Church School Sunday school club at the Y. M. C. A. Monday evening, according to G. F. Werner, general secretary.

Dr. G. R. Denyes, head of the religious work department at the college, will be dean. The class will meet once a week and two periods will be held. The first group will meet from 7:15 to 8:05 in the evening and the other from 8:15 to 9:15, according to Mr. Werner.

Each student is privileged to take advantage of two courses to be offered which probably will extend over a four year period. When the work is completed at the end of four years certificates are to be awarded.

An administration board is to be appointed within the next few weeks by Dr. Denyes. The board will select the faculty and curriculum of the school.

A report on the daily vacation Bible school also was read. Classes are to be held at the Congregational, First Methodist, Baptist and Reformed churches, it was reported. The sessions will open in June.

U. OF W. WILL HOLD BUSINESS CONFERENCE

The second annual business men's conference will be held in the Memorial Union building of the University of Wisconsin on May 27, according to notice received here by Appleton chamber of commerce. The meeting will be under direction of the university extension division. Prominent business men from all over the state are expected to attend.

"Economics in Doing Business" will be the main topic of the day's meeting. The phase to be discussed during the morning session will be "Reduction of the Distribution Costs of Manufactured Goods," with Dr. A. P. Haake, managing director of the National association of Furniture Manufacturers, in charge. Dr. Haake formerly was in charge of sales for the Simmons Company of Kenosha.

PLAN ORGANIZATION TO OPPOSE DOG ORDINANCE

An association to work for repeal of the city dog ordinance will be organized at a meeting at 7:30 Wednesday night at the office of the Outagamie Loan and Title Co. office on W. College-ave. Opponents of the ordinance hold that the measure is too drastic, according to Attorney A. H. Krugmeier, originator of the move.

MAN FINED $10 FOR RECKLESS DRIVING

A. Hoffman, Hortonville, was fined $10 and costs by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court Tuesday afternoon when he pleaded guilty of reckless driving. He was arrested on Highway 28 just out of Hortonville Tuesday afternoon by Charles Steidl, county motorcycle officer. Officer Steidl charged Hoffman's car was zig-zagging along the highway in a manner that made it dangerous for other machines on the road.

Allow Bills

Bills totaling $1,500 were allowed by the building and grounds committee at a meeting Tuesday afternoon at the courthouse. Other routine business matters were transacted.

3 COMMITTEES WILL HOLD SPECIAL MEETING

The sanatorium and buildings and grounds committee and the water committee will hold a special meeting Thursday afternoon at the office of John E. Hantschel, county clerk, at the courthouse. Several matters pertaining to the construction of the addition being built at Riverview sanatorium will be considered.

FOUR GREEN BAY YOUTHS ARE SENT TO REFORMATORY

Fifth Member of Group Is Paroled Because It Was His First Offense

Four of the five Green Bay youths arrested about 10 days ago in connection with the theft of an automobile owned by E. F. Miller, Appleton, were sentenced to serve from one to three years in the state reformatory at Green Bay by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court Tuesday afternoon when they pleaded guilty of taking an automobile without the owner's consent.

The four sentenced are: James Gooding, 20, Herman Reynard, 17, Brian Goral, 18, and Alvin Goral, 17.

Lloyd Dennis, 18, arrested on similar charges, was sentenced to from one to four years in the state reformatory, but was paroled. The parole was granted when the judge learned that this was Dennis' first offense. The four youths who were sent to the reformatory had previously been sentenced to that institution on charges at Green Bay and were on parole at the time the offense was committed here.

Gooding and Florian Goral had pleaded not guilty of charges of larceny and taking a car without the owner's consent when they were arraigned in court following their arrest. Later it was learned that the five boys had taken a car at Green Bay on the same day they took the machine in Appleton and drove from Green Bay to Appleton. This machine was owned by Frank Coppens of Green Bay.

When Gooding and Alvin Goral appeared in court Tuesday afternoon they pleaded guilty of taking a car without the owner's consent in connection with the theft of Coppens' car. The charges in connection with the theft of Miller's car were nolleed by District Attorney Stanley A. Steidl.

The other three boys had previously pleaded guilty to charges of larceny and taking a car without the owner's consent in connection with the theft of Miller's car. They were sentenced on the latter count and the former count was nolleed by Mr. Steidl.

The five boys, started their "escapade" at Green Bay on Saturday, April 27, when they took Coppens' car. They abandoned Coppens' machine in Appleton and took Miller's car.

On the next day, through pure coincidence, the Millers with their daughter, were visiting in Manitowish and the little girl recognized the machine as it passed in the street. She notified her father and after a wild chase from Manitowish to Two Rivers the five boys were captured with the aid of Two Rivers police after the car in which they were riding ran out of gas.

CHURCHES TO HOLD ASCENSION SERVICES

The Ascension of Christ will be observed in practically all Appleton churches Thursday with special services and sermons devoted to the jubilee of the Ascension.

Three masses will be held in three of the Catholic churches and four masses at St. Joseph church. At Sacred Heart church there will be services at 6 o'clock, 7:30 and 9 o'clock; at St. Mary church, 6 o'clock, 7:30, 9 o'clock, and 10 o'clock; and at St. Joseph church, 6:30, 8:45, and 9:30.

The Rev. R. E. Ziesemer of Mount Olive Lutheran church will speak on Jesus Christ, Ascending to Heaven. Present at an Ascension service at 7:45 in the evening. The Rev. F. C. ## 3 GANGMEN FALL AS "TRUCE" ENDS covered from the bodies appeared to have been from a machine gun, and was of the "dum-dum" type.

Quintz, had also been questioned in connection with the Moran gang killings. In a pocket of the man's coat police found a card bearing the name of Joe Berardi, official of a cigar firm. The reporters, however, believed this was not the dead man's name. All other marks of identification had been removed from the bodies.

The men, police said, were probably taken from the familiar gangland "hide," shot to death with revolvers or machine guns and the car ditched on the lonely prairie pike. The cushion had been removed from the back seat and the bodies dumped in its place, with a blanket laid over them.

Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, Cook, Illinois, coroner who has been active in the investigation of the massacre in Chicago, was invited to take part in the investigation here.

An autopsy will be performed on some of the bullets might be given to Corner Bundesen and Major Calvin Goddard, ballistics expert to assist in tracing bullets in the Chicago affair.

ELKINS CASE GOES TO JURY AT CHILTON

A circuit court jury at Chilton required at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning to determine the guilt or innocence of Mrs. Bessie Elkins, charged with operating a house of ill fame. The jury had not reported at noon.

The trial opened before Judge A. M. Beglinger Tuesday morning, with Attorney Frederick Aebischer, former district attorney of Calumet, prosecuting the case.

A roadhouse operated by Mrs. Elkins on the lake road was raided last Dec. 16 by a sheriff's squad from Chilton, and two charges were lodged against the resort keeper.

She was acquitted of the first charge, that of violating the liquor law, by a jury in circuit court at Chilton last March. She has been out on $2,000 bond since on the second charge.

Eight witnesses testified for the state, while Mrs. Elkins was the only defense witness. She told the court she had opened the roadhouse about two weeks before the raid, that she was ill and under the doctor's care at the time, and that she consequently was not responsible for any actions of her patrons.

CREWS START CLEARING WAY FOR NEW HIGHWAY

A crew of county workmen Wednesday started clearing the right of way for the new county line road which is to be built from New London to the Waupun-CO line, a distance of about four and a half miles, according to Frank Appleton, highway commissioner. Trees and stumps are to be removed from the right of way, power line poles are to be set back and the road is to be graded this summer. Surfacing of the road, however, will not be done until next year, Mr. Appleton said, because there are no funds available to complete the work.

The county board has authorized the committee to let the contract to complete the work providing the contractor will agree to wait for his money until April, 1930. It is estimated that the cost of completing the work will be about $20,000.

The committee also voted Tuesday afternoon to advertise for bids for a carload of culverts and a carload of gasoline. The bids are to be opened at the next meeting on May 21.

C. OF C. LOOKING FOR JOB "RACKETEERS"

Warning to be on the lookout for two men who claim to be R. J. Wayburn and D. J. Dwyer and who claim to be seeking skilled stenographers, bookkeepers and waitresses for positions in South America and the Orient, has been received here by Appleton chamber of commerce from the chamber at Fond du Lac. The two men staged their "racket" in Fond du Lac but escaped before they could be caught.

The men came to Fond du Lac, registered at a leading hotel, and inserted an advertisement in a newspaper asking all persons who wanted jobs to apply at a certain time. They then collected $3 from prospects claiming it was to cover medical examination for the job because half the people applying failed to pass the exams. After doing a land office business between 5 and 9 o'clock in the evening and instructing the applicants to see the doctor in the morning, the men checked out and have not been heard from since.

3 CONVOCACTIONS WEEKLY, COLLEGE PROGRAM IN 1930

Faculty Decides Against Daily Chapel for Next Year

College convocation will meet three times a week, Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, next year instead of daily as now is the practice, according to an announcement of new regulations adopted at a recent meeting of the faculty.

The time for chapel will remain the same, 10 o'clock. On Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, classes will meet at that hour. Attendance will be required and will call taker immediately on the hour.

The president will preside over all convocations even when undergraduates are in charge. Announcements are to be confined chiefly to awards of college honors or notices of public events or exhibitions of unusual merit. No announcements dealing with extra-curricular activities are to be made and no announcements by students will be permitted except when the period is turned over to undergraduates.

Because the present policy of student convocation places too great a burden upon the students endeavoring to arrange programs and upon the student talent, it was decided to discontinue student convocation with the understanding that the administration will freely turn over to the students upon proper application any convocation for which they may have suitable business.

A committee on convocations will be appointed to assist the dean in the preparation of convocation programs. The new regulations were adopted from proposals of two committees, one composed of faculty members and the other of students which had worked independently and each submitted its own report.

BRAIN TELLS WHY PROF WAGED WAR ON TOBACCO

Ithaca, N. Y.—(P)—Why Prof. Burt G. Wilder of Cornell, abhorred tobacco was explained today in an announcement of results of a study of his brain by Dr. James Papez.

The brain is one of a collection established more than 40 years ago by Dr. Wilder. Dr. Papez, curator of the collection now, in commenting on the study of Dr. Wilder's brain, said that it revealed an atrophy of the olfactory center, devoted to the functions of smell. The atrophy was so such advanced degree that Dr. Papez infers that it was of long standing and thus explained of Wilder's lack of appreciation of tobacco which led him not only to abstain from it himself but also to crusade against its use by others.

REV. I. H. MILLER REGAINS HEALTH

Methodist Minister Says Rheumatism and Other Troubles Yielded to Sargon

"For years I suffered with rheumatism and lumbago. Many nights the pains kept me awake for hours, and there were times when I could hardly get about. My stomach was disordered and I had very little appetite. I ate very sparingly, and even then my food would not digest properly. This undernourished and weakened me. Last October I was badly burned in a gas explosion and suffered a nervous shock. After that there was a general giving away of my strength and vitality. I lost weight and was in rapid decline.

"Sargon proved wonderful in my case. I felt better before I had finished the first bottle. Day by day I grew stronger. I have taken three bottles, my appetite has returned and I eat anything I want. My digestion is perfect. The nervousness and stomach trouble disappeared, and every ache and pain of lumbago and rheumatism is gone. I sleep splendidly and it is just marvelous the way my strength and energy have returned. I have gained five pounds, and my friends all tell me how well I look.

"Sargon Soft Mass Pills have overcome my constipation, my liver is active for the first time in years and I am no longer bilious. I am telling all my friends what the Sargon treatment has done for me."

The above statement was recently made by Rev. Isaac H. Miller, 1201 West 38th St., Oklahoma City, who was for fifty years a minister of the Methodist Church. He retired seven years ago and is 73 years of age. He is a member of the Masons and K of P and is loved by a wide circle of friends.

Sargon may be obtained at Appleton from Voigt's Drug Store and in Baykama from H. G. Bauer.

THE DISARMAMENT CONFERENCE

The preliminary conference on disarmament at Geneva has adjourned to meet later in the year to permit the naval powers in particular to spend a few months in studying the American proposals put forward by Ambassador Gibson. While the seeming lack of progress has caused general disappointment, and more or less adverse criticism, a fair estimate of the situation faced by the delegates would seem to make further delay inevitable. Naval limitation or reduction is inseparably linked with reparations. Until that question is settled neither France nor Italy can be expected to give their approval to a specific program. British delegates could not very well commit their government since it faces a general election, the results of which cannot be predicted with certainty. It is possible that no party may emerge sufficiently strong to organize a ministry.

It may be just as well, therefore, to give further time to an analysis of the American proposals and of the subject in a general way. Much, of course, will depend upon how the problem is studied and by whom. It would seem to be a question for determination by statesmen rather than by naval strategists. Disarmament depends upon sincerity of purpose rather than upon formula. Maritime power is so complex that if reduction is not undertaken in good faith technicians and inventors will find a way to evade and negative all definite commitments.

As a matter of fact, the conference has brought progress in that, as Mr. Hoover points out, all of the principal naval powers have expressed adherence to the proposals of the American delegation, which include reduction instead of limitation of naval strength. They wish to develop the idea separately before again conferring.

The government at Washington has made it clear that—Mr. Gibson's address before the Geneva preparatory commission with respect to land disarmament was misunderstood; that as a matter of fact this question is one exclusively for the European powers to decide. This country has already reduced its land forces far beyond any basis that Europe might fix, and its interest in what Europe does is collateral and academic.

The settlement of reparations will pay the way to cutting down land armament abroad, as it will also make possible a consideration of naval disarmament. While the time is not now ripe for pressing either to a conclusion, it is not unlikely that before the close of the year the picture will altogether change. The logic of disarmament is so great that it cannot be resisted indefinitely and with the United States definitely committed to the principle that naval armament is relative and that it can and should be reduced, favorable results are to be anticipated in the end.

A WHOLESOME SPECTACLE

Harry F. Sinclair, millionaire oil operator and sportsman, is in jail. He will serve a three months' sentence for contempt of the United States senate's Teapot Dome investigating committee. Mr. Sinclair refused to give information about the criminal phases of that conspiracy.

Harry F. Sinclair in jail is one of the most wholesome spectacles this country has seen in more than a generation. He deserves to be there and a lot more with him; in fact, he deserves to be in an institution with a much longer and less attractive name. There will be people who feel sorry for him and sympathize with him. They are the kind who wink at all forms of lawlessness and who condone graft and corruption. They are the "eminently respectable," the "nice people," who believe that those of wealth and position are entitled to do about as they please in America, that they are a law unto themselves and that any offenses they may choose to commit are excusable because of their social and financial station. It is this phase of wealth and false aristocracy that undermines government, not poverty and the common people. It does it by arrogating to itself special privileges and immunities. Sinclair belongs to this class. Locking him up in jail for three months is a victory of government over wealth and a social aristocracy that considers itself superior to law and even government. We have the supreme court of the United States to thank for this. If we had had to depend upon the juries that weep over Texas Guinnans and put halos around the heads of Dohenys, Sinclair would never be in jail.

A MANAGER FOR CHICAGO

Some conscientious and public spirited citizens of Chicago casting about for means to deliver that city from crime and corruption have proposed a change to the managerial form of government. They declare their belief that under the present mayor-council system "good government is impossible." On the other hand, they expressed the conviction that the manager plan "opens the way for better government," adding that "while no type of city government can be relied upon to yield good government unless it is administered competently, the form is highly important, for although it cannot guarantee good government automatically, it can make it possible." Long experience with the old mayor and council plan which still prevails in Chicago and most of the other large cities of the United States, has convinced most persons that it makes good government impossible.

These men, who have organized as the Chicago Citizens association, have accordingly prepared a memorial to the legislature urging the enactment of a bill already introduced to permit Illinois cities to adopt the city manager system. A bulletin prepared by the association recites the fact that at present there are some fourteen large cities under the city manager plan with, of course, hundreds of smaller cities. The large cities include Cleveland, Kansas City, Cincinnati, Rochester, Port Worth, Dayton, Norfolk, Oklahoma City, Indianapolis, Grand Rapids, Mich., Fall River, Mass., Knoxville, Sacramento, Wichita and Miami.

The association points out that one of the things that have made for the success of the city manager plan is that it completely separates the policy executing and the policy determining functions of government. An elective council determines all questions of policy while the chief executive officer, appointed by that body and responsible to it, carries out the execution of its orders or policies. Consequently citizens are easily able to follow the operations of city government and hold to accountability those who exercise its functions.

The Citizens association of Chicago believes that this is the one real hope of rescue for that city from its political and municipal depravity. Its decent citizenship has been struggling for a generation now to bring about reform and has made no headway. Grafters, looters and criminals still run Chicago's government and bleed the people annually for millions of dollars. The city manager plan would not of itself save Chicago, but it would offer a far more potent and effective means of reform. It would furnish a machinery which would simplify real housecleaning if that is what the people want.

All over the United States communities which are giving serious thought to the waste, inadequacy and evils of American municipal government are turning away from the council-mayor system to that of a city manager. The results are uniformly encouraging and in most instances remarkable. When Appleton makes up its mind that it wants to join the advancing class of American municipalities and make its city government a real asset, it will do the same.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY RICHARD G. MASSOCK

New York—At last something has been found for the dummy to do at bridge. He can put puzzles together.

The jig-saw puzzle had its coming back, says Miss Sarah Matthews, who for 15 years has made a business of exchanging new puzzles for old.

There was once a time when people cut their own puzzles, but that soon went out of fashion. In recent years the home-made sets have been supplanted by complicated puzzles having as many as 1,500 pieces.

Doctors, judges and financiers, many of them prominent, are among the puzzle addicts. Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford used to be fans. Every three or four weeks solved puzzles are sent back for exchange by regular customers who live as far away as Los Angeles.

Miss Matthews' business was started when the fad was at its height and homes were being cluttered with the green-shaded blocks that no longer were interesting. For a time it declined, but now it is getting much better. One prominent actress keeps her dressing room littered with puzzles and hostesses have them at bridge parties to amuse the one who sets out.

"LION"

The town's literary lion of the moment is Richard Hughes, a young poet, dramatist and novelist whose first visit to New York several years ago was made without any one having been especially aware of his coming and going.

Hughes is only 28 years old, but he has played with Balkan revolutions, sailed on windmills and wandered among ferocious Arabs. His home is in Wales, where he lives in a stone cottage for which he pays $25 a year. His most conspicuous feature is a brown beard.

While at Oxford, Hughes knew Lawrence of Arabia and used to listen, over All Souls sherry, to Lawrence's stories of what Hughes thinks was probably the greatest adventure of this generation.

ADVENTURER

Before he was graduated from college, Hughes himself had drunk a party of conspirators under the table in cellars of a central European palace. He had been arrested nine times. He had swum the Danube at a point where it was a rather lively frontier. And he had learned what it feels like to have three excited politicians poke rifles into your stomach by moonlight—safely catches, down.

Once, he says, when taking some secret papers over a frontier, he was ambushed and taken to the guard-room to be searched. There he simply threw the document on the floor and let it lie among some rubbish, in full view of everybody, while the soldiers satisfied themselves that there was nothing in the heels of his boots or sewn in the lining of his coat.

Afterward he picked up the paper and carefully crumpled it back in his pocket, getting away with it.

Yet even with all those experiences, he finds his visit to New York made simultaneously with publication of his first novel, "The Innocent Voyage," just a little strenuous.

Today's Anniversary

BATTLE OF PALO ALTO

On May 8, 1846, the battle of Palo Alto, Tex., was fought between 2,000 American troops and 4,000 Mexicans. The battle, resulting in an American victory, was looked upon in Washington as a Mexican invasion of United States territory, since the Polk administration had set up a claim to all southwest lands north of the Rio Grande river, after settling the northwest boundary dispute with England by treaty.

The battle was the immediate cause of the Mexican war, declared less than a week later. It was a decisive battle, the part of Mexico to prevent General Taylor, United States commander in the southwest, from pushing on to the Rio Grande.

General Taylor's political star began to rise at Palo Alto. He became the first military hero the country had had in a long time and this finally brought him to the presidency.

Taylor led American troops to victory in four of the ten chief battles of the Mexican War, including Monterrey and Buena Vista. General Winfield Scott won no major victory during the entire conflict.

USE YOUR DIAPHRAM AND SAVE YOUR ARTERIES

This is the third and last hope about high blood pressure. It is a simple, harmless and fairly helpful remedy for it, to faithful followers who stick it through to the end of the show. In case you happen to have any blood pressure on your mind and have just happened in, you should look up the two acts we have already given—"Low Blood Pressure and High Blood Pressure" and "Exercise and High Blood Pressure" but I am unable to say at this writing just what the dates of publication may be.

In Act one, after the usual amount of play, we enunciated a physiological principle, namely, that in most cases of high blood pressure or hypertension, as doctors love to call it, we find on careful observation that the patients have a low breathing habit, that is, they breathe more slowly than normal persons do, and their breathing is more strained than that of normal persons. We are speaking only of uncomplicated hypertension—high blood pressure without associated organic disease. Where the medical examination elicits signs of, enlargement (hypertrophy) of the heart, or chronic nephritis (Bright's disease) or arteriosclerosis (hardening of the arteries) the patient had better forget all about high blood pressure and follow his doctor's advice just as if high blood pressure had never been invented. But when there is no evidence of underlying organic disease, then the poor gink with the h. p. b. may well digest what we enunciated in the first act, and get type in his undivided attention to act, type in which we explain how exercise always tends to lower high blood pressure, just as walking tends to lower the distance of a runner. We are talking of the least although prolonged standing or sitting, particularly if slouched or slumped position, as gravitates such trouble. You see, exercise serves to pump blood from the systemic circulation into the great veins near the heart.

Well, we're getting along now. From now on, you will get little practical help out of this if you have not missed the two preceding talks. We are about to take a detour step forward in short steps the victim of high blood pressure to use his diaphragm.

I know this can't be done in the best regulated households, but just this same, I can almost promise you that by means of only a few minutes use of almost any old diaphragm every day, the blood pressure may be brought down an average of 30 per cent of the excess and kept down indefinitely.

Here we must beg the indulgence of the editors for a paragraph which will certainly seem weird if not comical if we can't say belly when we mean belly.

If belly is absolutely taboo, then I beg and plead that no synonym be substituted for the word—in this paragraph for three to take a detour step forward in short steps the victim of high blood pressure to use his diaphragm.

The diaphragm is one muscle, the belly is another. When the diaphragm contracts it presses down upon the liver, stomach, spleen and other appurtenances of the abdomen and causes the belly to bulge; when the diaphragm relaxes this pressure is released and the belly again retracts or falls.

Natural breathing is mainly diaphragmatic or belly breathing. Quer theorists, but these birds develop high blood pressure, hypertension, seem to weaken first in the vicinity of the diaphragm and belly. They get into a habit of sucking the breathing business; they take only fourteen or fifteen breaths a minute, at most, instead of 18 or more, as a healthy adult should take. They breathe shallow, low, and they will have to add another act to their list.

QUESTION AND ANSWERS

Raw Onion

Is raw onion harmful or would it affect high blood pressure or kidney trouble? (J. H. B.)

Answer—As a rule it is all right. Onion contains desirable vitamins, mineral elements and so on, but we ought to eat 'em freely because they taste so elegant and add such an appetizing flavor to numerous dishes.

Sample Seems O. K.

I have my ultraviolet screen all ready for my cellophane, but I have trouble with difficulty in obtaining the same enclosed for the window? (Miss E. E. H.)

Answer—You are right—it is very difficult to get any information about this or about glass that transmits ultraviolet rays. If the sample you enclose is cellophane, I should say it is all right for your window, but I am unable to give further information about cellophane or about window glass than I have given in the items published here.

Discipline Necessary

Kindly tell me something that will stop my nephew, 15, from smoking cigarettes and pipe. He is thin and nervous and cannot concentrate in his studies. (Mrs. R. A. R.)

Answer—Let the boy sign a pledge not to smoke till he is 21. If he is unable to keep the pledge, then suitable measures of discipline should be used. If he is mentally deficient or delinquent, perhaps proper institutional confinement or restriction would be the kindest way to manage him. At any rate it would be most regrettable to allow him to drift on. Surely no medical treatment is needed to correct a habit in a child of that age.

Doctor's Hearing Poor

Before I could go to a camp I had to have a medical examination. The doctor remarked that he couldn't hear my heart and told me to jump around. Then he heard it, and jokingly said it must have been in my shoes. He failed to tell me, however, just what was the matter. Do you think there can be anything wrong? (Miss A. M.)

Answer—I am afraid there is. The doctor's hearing is probably getting poor. But anyway, it can do you no harm to follow his advice—keep jumping around every day, whether you go to camp or not.

It is true there are some cities that went wet. But they are few and besides we must consider this a national affair. Now Mr. Wet could you or would you respect any great fire who would sell liquor to a boy or girl 16 years of age? Do you think people of that type are Good Citizens? A BYSTANDER IN WASHINGTON

BY HERBERT C. PLUMMER

Washington—Rep. David Hogg of Indiana believes that in his district is a site of national historical significance that has been neglected too long. He wants congress to do something about it.

The site is the grave of one Samuel Wilson in a cemetery in the town of Merriam. This Samuel Wilson, says Mr. Hogg, is the man by whose sobriquet, "Uncle Sam," the United States of America is popularly designated.

He has introduced a bill authorizing an appropriation of $25,000 to erect a suitable memorial.

Mr. Hogg knows a lot about the history of Sam Wilson and how his sobriquet was applied to designate the United States.

Samuel Wilson was a quartermaster in the government commissary at Troy, N. Y., during the war of 1812. His commissary was located in the store of Elbert Anderson.

As each government consignment came to him he would inspect it and place the mark, "E A U S" on the packages. They would then be taken to the docks for shipment.

UNCLE SAM

One day a new wharf hand asked a longshoreman the meaning of the mark. He was told it meant that the consignment had been approved by "Uncle Sam" and came from the store owned by Elbert Anderson.

The story was told up and down the river, and in time everything that pertained to the United States was popularly designated "Uncle Sam." And the title has lived to this day. There are, of course, other theories.

Mr. Hogg says that "Uncle Sam" was a typical American citizen, representative of American ideals, and a staunch defender of American principles. He accompanied Lewis and Clark on their expedition in 1804-05. He was cited for gallantry for his part as a quartermaster on the United States ship Constitution in her historic battle with the British vessel Guerriere in 1812.

LIVED TO 109

In civil life he was both a tailor and a doctor. He was 100 years and three days old at the time of his death, having been born just two weeks after the first shot was fired for American Independence. He died May 7, 1875.

"Uncle Sam" was the father of three daughters and seven sons. Six of the sons served in the forces of the United States during the civil war.

The "Uncle Sam" memorial is not the only monument that Representative Hogg is trying to get from congress. "Mad" Anthony Wayne, a hero of the revolution, holds a strong appeal for the Hoosier, and he has taken up the cudgel in his behalf.

FOREIGN POULTRY COMPETING WITH DOMESTIC BIRDS

Irish Fowl Finding More
Ready Market Than Our Own Product

BY J. C. ROYLE
Copyright, 1929, By Cons. Press
New York—The cooks crowd in Ireland five hours before they do in New York and eight hours before they announce their early morning hours on the Pacific coast—and it would seem that the breeders of Irish poultry are nearly as wide awake and as far ahead as their birds.

At least a thousand cases of Irish turkeys and chickens are arriving in New York this week and have been sold in advance. Neither freight rates nor tariff duties have sufficed to overcome this competition to the birds of New England, the south Atlantic states, Texas, Iowa, Michigan, Minnesota and the Pacific northwest.

Consumers tried the Irish birds with considerable trepidation but their fears were soon allayed. The birds which have been shipped here have been refrigerated with the utmost skill. They have not been frozen, which, it is claimed, injures the state of the meat, but are chilled just to the proper point where danger of spoiling is absent and flavor is preserved. This is due largely to the improved refrigeration facilities on the British passenger boats which carry most of these cargoes and which touch at Queenstown and Belfast.

STILL SELL CHEAPER
After all duties and freight have been paid, the grovers of these birds have been able to sell them at approximately 2 cents a pound under the price for American birds in this market. This is due to some extent to the way in which the fowls are killed. The Irish fowls are slaughtered in such a way that the blood collects and congeals about the neck and crop and since this is undrained, about 1/2 to 1 1/2 pounds added to the weight of each bird as it is sold.

Most of the birds are large fowls. The turkeys run well toward 18 pounds apiece and are being absorbed largely by the hotel and restaurant trade, for American birds are tentatively in the preparation of club and other sandwiches. It is said that the restaurant carvers have found it possible to slice an unusually large quantity of usable meat from these birds.

Turkeys have always been considered an American product but the other nations are fast putting themselves in a position to compete in domestic markets with the home-grown birds. Argentina and Brazil are sending fair tonnages of turkeys and other fowls to this country. Huge numbers of chickens have come here from Russia, but these fowls in general have been frozen and as a result of unsanitary refrigeration have been below the local birds in quality. This is true to a certain extent also of the south American birds. Japan is sending a choice lot of chickens of broiler size to this country and is finding a ready sale despite duty and freight charges.

The quail of Argentina now have become a standard article of food in this market, faring much better than reindeer and whale meat, which were exploited by local food merchants for a time. China still is shipping a huge quantity of dried and processed eggs to this country.

WHOLESALE USE THEM
The majority of these foreign products are used by the wholesalers of food products rather than by the American housewife. The latter still inclines sharply to home grown fowls and fresh laid eggs.

The big packing companies have turned serious attention to the distribution of better and eggs. Swift

A MAN CAN'T EVEN SHOOT GOLDFISH IN OWN HOME NOWADAYS

Chicago—(AP)—The Julius Goldens were spending a quiet evening at home. Golden, to be sociable, announced he could shoot a moving goldfish in the left eye. He took his trusty revolver, aimed carefully, and blazed away at the fish bowl. In no time at all he shot six goldfish dead, then a door nail. The bullets, a post mortem revealed, entered the left eye, right eye, ears and noses and throats.

But one has very little privacy these days. Someone complained and the police arrived. They decided to arrest Golden, despite their unbecoming admiration for his marksmanship. There was little doubt but that they could find some law covering it.

JUROR ADMITS HE ACCEPTED BRIBE

Another Admits Offering It
in Tennessee Murder
Trial

Nashville, Tenn.—(AP)—B. P. Osburn, carpenter, whose vote for acquittal hung the jury in the trial of Walter Liggett, for the alleged murder of Turney Cunningham, and Rainey "Coon" Creswell, a grocer, have confessed to charges of accepting a bribe and bribery, respectively, according to Attorney General M. Atkinson.

Osburn was the sole juror in the second trial of Walter Liggett for the murder of Turney Cunningham, to demand a verdict for acquittal. The two were arrested early today on warrants charging them with acceptance of a bribe and bribery.

The jury, like the first one four months ago, reported yesterday that it was unable to agree. Eleven members of the panel were reported to have favored a first degree verdict carrying a prison term of 99 years. The warrants were issued last night after an investigation by Attorney General Richard M. Atkinson, they were based on a message in which Creswell told Osburn "not to worry about that bill" he owed him.

"I will take care of it," Osburn is reported to have replied "all right" when given the message.

Atkinson said last night he would bring the case before each term of criminal court until a verdict is reached.

Jack Quinn, itinerant boiler-maker, Liggett's "surprise" eye witness to the shooting, was indicted for perjury in connection with his testimony at the first trial. He forfeited bond posted by C. L. Liggett, the defendant's father, but later appeared in time for the second trial. He was not called.

Liggett shot and killed Cunningham in an alley behind the Cunningham home on Oct. 29 last, after keeping a tryst with Mrs. Cunningham. She and the defendant admitted an affair extending over several years.

and company is a leader in this field and also has originated a scientific method of feeding fowl which has practically eliminated the tough, string bird.

As to other meat products, the delicatessen shop which for years was filled with foreign products now is having its shelves and ice boxes supplied mainly from American sources. The growth in foreign population, while it has increased the demand for foreign sausages and specialty meat products, has been as to induce domestic food producers to enter the field with products which are equal to or superior to the foreign meats in quality and flavor.

COOPERATE WITH POLICE, SPEAKER TELLS CIVIC CLUB

Outlines Three Methods of Helping Officers Enforce Laws

Three ways in which citizens can aid the police in law enforcement were explained by A. G. Barry of the sociology department of the university of Wisconsin at the meeting of Rotary club at Hotel Northern Tuesday noon.

The most important assistance he said, is giving information or co-operating with the police in obtaining it. As an example he cited the case of the recent Madison robbery when gangsters stole a large sum of money being transported from the license division to the Capitol building. A call for the police patrol was put in, but the informant failed to give necessary information, and when the patrol arrived at the license building no one knew enough about the robbery or what had happened to give the cops a chance to do their duty. By the time the police eventually found out, the robbers were miles away, and consequently have never been apprehended.

The second means of aiding the police, he said, is using good sense in seeking legislation. "If your neighbor eats limburger cheese, don't try to stop him by organizing an anti-limburger association or by placing a new law on the statutes of your state. Save your time and effort for more important matters."

The third method, stated Mr. Barry, is making it possible to reward policemen for good service. "Evaluate

OPOSSUM FINDS NEW HOME IN CAGE USED FOR CAL'S RACCOON

Washington—(AP)—The spacious cage of the south grounds of the White House which once housed Rebecca, President Coolidge's pet raccoon, now has a new occupant, an opossum.

The animal strayed into the White House grounds several nights ago and was captured by B. B. Snodgrass of the White House police, who placed it in a cage. It has been named "Billy Possum" and for the present is to be retained in Rebecca's cage.

ate your police force, and reward those who deserve to be honored.

Prof. Barry closed his speech with an appeal to Rotarians to cooperate with the police in making Appleton a safer place in which to live.

CAMP BUILDINGS BEING PREPARED FOR TROOPERS

Camp Douglas—(AP)—Buildings at Camp Williams, near here, are being renovated for the influx of approximately 4,000 Wisconsin guardsmen of the 127th and 128th Infantry regiments of the sixty-fourth brigade for encampment July 27 to Aug. 19.

The two regiments, under command of Brig. Gen. Paul B. Clemens, will be ordered to move from Camp Williams to Camp McCoy, near Sparta, during the second week, to be pitted against each other in a two-day test program.

The guardsmen will take part in offensive and defensive action against low flying aircraft, with planes and pilots from the regular army air service on duty.

DROP 10 MEMBERS OF SUPERIOR COP FORCE

Superior—(AP)—Chief of Police A. E. Buchanan announced that 10 members of the police department would be dismissed, as a part of the economy program of the Mayor George Dietrich administration.

NEGRO FOUND GUILTY IN AX MURDER CASE

Linden, Ala.—(AP)—Edgar Harris, Negro, was found guilty of the "axe murder" of J. R. Moss, Hugo, Ala., postmaster here yesterday and was sentenced to die in the electric chair. Moss was attacked and killed Feb. 15. His body was found inside the postoffice early the next day. Jud Brown, Negro, will go on trial today on a charge of murder in the same case.

Crystal waited, asking no questions while Tony undressed. She knew now that Tony would tell her everything—in her own way, in her own good time. It was enough, now, to hear her moving about in the semi-darkness. Although the moonlight was dimmed by the ruffled dimity curtains, Crystal could have seen Tony if she had tried. But she kept her eyes closed. Tony did not want to be gazed at now, even in semi-darkness.

Tony ran across the room to the bed. "Hold me tight, Crys! Oh!—you're crying again—"

"Because I'm—so glad," Crystal sobbed, her arms closing convulsively about the slim body in its sheer silk pajamas.

"And you were crying before I came because I'd lied. I knew you knew I was lying about Pat's calling me—Lies! Ugh, how I hate lies! That's the reason I—couldn't go on with it."

"I knew you couldn't!" Crystal assured her with tremulous vehemence. "Then you know Tony Tarver better than she knew herself," Tony answered solemnly. "I honestly thought I could, Crys. I thought about it all my head was spinning. I'm a rotten thinker—haven't had enough practice. Life has always seemed too simple to need a lot of high-powered thinking. And then I got my life so messed up that I had to think. You see, I figured, like this. I honestly don't want to be married to anybody. Can't bear the thought of being Mrs. Somebody. Want to be Tony Tarver, belong to myself. You know—"

"Yes," Crystal agreed, and held her more tightly, because she was trembling.

"Well, you can imagine how I felt about being Mrs. Dick Talbot," Tony went on. "It seemed absurd to pay that big price for a few bootlegs and thrills. Oh, anything. But Dick had convinced me that I had to pay, or lose my own self-respect, as well as his. Not that his matters a whole of a lot! If it didn't—But you know all this, Crys. There's no use hashing it over. I thought the easiest way out was to go away with him—and—and get it over with. Pay up and tell him to shut up. Of course I remembered a lot of rot I'd read about 'free souls' and 'free love,' and I knew I wouldn't be doing anything at all unique or even unusual. And when it was over, I'd still be Tony Tarver, still be free, all debts paid, but free—free, Crys! Funny word, isn't it? Imagine any girl tying herself all up in lies and then calling herself free!"

"Please, Tony!" Crystal begged, as the slim body in her arms kept jerking spasmodically. "You don't have to tell me, if it hurts so much—"

"I need to tell you—got to get it off my chest," Tony sobbed. "I put it up to Dick and square this afternoon when we were driving to Darrow. Told him I didn't love him enough to marry him, and never would; that if he wanted me, I'd go away with him for a night—to pay my debt—but that afterwards I'd never want to see him again. He laughed, Crys—said he'd take his chances on that—"

"Oh, the cad!" Crystal gasped. "Why didn't he have the grace to call quits, knowing how you felt? If he were half decent—"

"Don't you see, Crys? I'm sure now that Dick knew me better than I knew myself. He counted on my not being able to go through with it tonight; knew that when it came to a showdown I'd marry him instead. But let me tell you all about it, in case you are ever tempted."

The Tynymites

By Hal Cochran

THE honeycomb the bee had brought pleased all the bunch. Said one. "We ought to have a little party with the Goofygoos and bee. We'll find a soft spot on the ground, and then ye all can gather 'round. Ah! There's a dandy place, I think, beside the big oak tree."

"That's very fine," vee Scouty said. "But I just wish they had some bread to spread the wondrous honey on. 'Twould be real good that way. I fear we'll spill it on our clothes, and if we do that goodness knows, we'll have to scrub our clothes again, and that is far from play."

"Ha, ha!" the Goofygoos laughed out. "That plan of yours is good, no doubt, but where are we to find the bread that you would have us eat. There are no bakeries right near here. We'll have to give it up, I fear. Now, as for me, the honey is enough to make a treat."

"Hold on, there," cried the big king bee. "I think a plan has come to me. I know a queer old baker who lives in a clump of trees. I'm sure that he will treat us right and bake us bread before it's night. He has a dandy oven and he bakes all things with ease."

"Well, that's a fine idea! Gee! I surely make a hit with me," said Clowny, as he jumped right up and added, "Lead the way." "All right," replied the giant bee. "But, can't you big bird carry me?" I'm all tired out and I can't walk as far as that today."

The Goofygoos began to grin, and with the plan he joined right in. "Hop on my back here, of king bee," he shouted very loud. So, off they started, with a bound. The Tynymites followed on the ground. The thought of having good food made it quite a happy crowd.

(The Tynymites meet the baker man in the next story.)

CAR DEALERS URGED TO SEEK REPEAL OF AUTOMOBILE TAXES

Propose Additional Gas Tax to Offset Personal Property Assessment

The first steps in the state campaign to eliminate the personal property tax on automobiles and the substitution of an additional 1 cent gasoline tax, were taken here Tuesday evening when L. D. Frint, president of the Automotive Trades Association, Milwaukee, outlined the proposed repeal of the personal property tax law and explained the features of a new tax bill to about 20 local automobile dealers at the Conway hotel.

The present personal property tax law is impracticable and is causing more difficulty to auto dealers and tax assessors every year," Mr. Frint said. "If the new 1 cent gas tax is adopted, it will do away with the annual dodging of auto taxes when car buyers rush dealers immediately after May 2," he said.

RELIEVE BURDEN

"It also would tend to relieve the burden of the tax payer in an annual when most of his taxes become due. The state tax rates throughout the state also would be done away with."

There will be no more challenging of the car owners to check the true value of their machines, and the guess work which is done by owners when they fill out their assessment blanks also would be eliminated," the speaker said.

"The extra 1 cent in the gas tax rate would yield about three and a half millions in revenue, while the present personal property tax on cars brings in a little more than three millions."

WILL COST LESS

"If the additional gas tax is adopted, the annual share of each motorist would be decreased about a fifth. Assuming that the value of the average car is $1,000 and the average mileage per year is 8,000, the motorist would probably buy 600 gallons of gas to travel that distance. Applying the new gas tax law, his annual auto tax would be $6.00 as compared to the present rate here of $35 per $1,000."

"Figuring it out locally, the last personal property tax total in Outagamie was $77,356, and the additional 1 cent gas tax, on the basis of 1928 gas tax figures would yield $79,047, which is an increase of over $1,700 revenue in this county."

It is believed the 1 cent additional gas tax with a personal property offset, would yield the state approximately $54,000 more revenue annually, the revenue being apportioned among the taxation units in the same manner as the present personal property tax.

MAKE TOURISTS PAY

"There has always been a lot of talk during the past few years by Wisconsin people about the heavy tourist travel, and the general sentiment expressed was more or less that of resentment. Many people believe that tourists should pay a certain share toward the maintenance of our state roads. If the new tax law is adopted they will pay a share," Mr. Frint explained.

"A big saving to Wisconsin motorists would come through the fact that approximately 17 per cent of the tax in the past has been paid by motorists from other states, mostly summer tourists, and as the tourists' share increases their share of the tax would also increase."

"The revenue collected in the various cities, villages, and towns in the state would not go into the state gas tax pot, but will be returned to the treasurers of the towns, villages or cities," Mr. Frint explained.

He urged the local dealers to organize and spread the "gospel" of the proposal. "Dealers will profit in many ways," he said. "The annual sales will be distributed evenly throughout the year and on May 2 tax dodgers will not swamp garages. There won't be as many losses of sales because the dealer is unable to get immediate delivery on or after May 1," Mr. Frint stated.

PLANES FRIGHTEN COWS—MILK YIELD CUT BY A QUARTER

Clarkstown, N. Y.—(AP)—A demand by several farmer residents that the town airport be abandoned because the whir of airplanes makes their cows discontented was before the town board today.

ATTEMPTS TO HALT TERMINAL PROJECT

L. F. Loree Revealed as Moving Force Against Van Sweringens

Cleveland, O.—(AP)—L. F. Loree, president of the Delaware and Hudson railroad and former rival of the Van Sweringens brothers in the establishment of a new eastern trunk line, was revealed in petitions on file in federal court today as a Wheeling and Lake Erie railroad director initiating new efforts to block the $200,000,000 Van Sweringens Union terminal project here.

The Wheeling and Lake Erie depot site is considered necessary for truckage space in the new station, now nearly complete. Saturday, demands for the property were made which the Union Terminals company, a Van Sweringens interest, rejected as "unacceptable." An answer to a complaint by the Taplin interests in Wheeling and Lake Erie seeking a federal injunction restraining the road from selling its station site to the Van Sweringens' revealed Loree's part in drawing up the new demands for the land.

Minutes of the Wheeling directors' meeting, included in the Van Sweringens answer, named Loree as the director making three motions which were passed, outlining the proposals which the Van Sweringens interests found unacceptable. One was for an interest rate of 6 per cent, on the $1,600,000 the terminals promoters offered to pay for the station land—an increase of 60 per cent in the interest rate. Another increased from $400,000 to $1,000,000 the bond to be posted by the terminals company to insure restoration of the property in case the Interstate Commerce commission rules against the road's entering the station. Still another provided that an entirely new contract be drawn between the Wheeling and the Terminals company, which now leaves the Van Sweringens without a contract for purchase of the land. The land is valued by appraisers at $800,000 but the Van Sweringens have agreed to pay twice that amount. Engineers say there is no other entrance to the station from the east.

MONSTERS OF DEEP INVADERS SHALLOWER WATERS OF PACIFIC

Sharks, Octopi and Crocodiles Grow More Menacing to People

Sydney, N. S. W.—(AP)—Sharks, octopi and crocodiles have given a dangerous aspect recently to shallower sections of much of the southern Pacific which hitherto have been free from these menaces.

T. Vanzoni while swimming in Akareka Harbor New Zealand endured agony in the grip of tentacles of a giant octopus. A friend dived into the water and beat off the brute with a club. Vanzoni was on the point of collapse when rescued.

He said he had dived into deep water when what he described as two devil's eyes, glowing and ferocious, seemed to dart down upon him, and even before the tentacles grasped him he felt powerless. An uncanny fascination made him almost incapable of effort against the tenacious grip.

More terrifying than the strength of the tentacles was an overpowering sensation as of live electric wires which they seemed to impart but whether this was real or due to terrified imagination he could not say.

People of North Queensland who have been accustomed to swim in the Estuaries of the district on hot days have abandoned the practice almost altogether as a consequence of invasion of salt water crocodiles. At Cairns three youths were bathing in an enclosure near the shore

TENNESSEE CHURCH IN TRIBUTE TO MARSHAL

Knoxville Tenn.—(AP)—Services for the late Marshal Ferdinand Foch, commander of the allied armies in the World war, will be held at St. John's Episcopal church here next Sunday morning with former service men participating.

Senator Lawrence D. Tyson, commander of the Thirtieth U. S. division under Foch, will come from Washington Saturday night to make the principal address.

When one of them, Kevin Conlin, 14, who was in water only 18 inches deep, suddenly leaped into the air with a cry of alarm. His companions were horrified to see pointing from the water the long jagged jaws of a crocodile wide open ready to snap again at the boy.

One happened to have with him a long pole with which they had been engaged in some water sports. He raised this and brought it crashing down on the snout. Seizing their dazed and bleeding companion the boys made for the shore but the crocodile followed and made another vicious snap at Conlin, this time just missing his left leg, which, on account of a gash in the hip, was trailing helplessly in the water.

After three human tragedies attributed to sharks at Boudi beach, near the heart of Sydney, a commercial company spread huge nets between two ships and secured 29 sharks, one of them a tiger shark, the most ferocious of the species, 20 feet in length and weighing between 800 and 900 pounds.

Several of the catch were "whaler" sharks—a kind which preys on whales. Some of these were found to have received amazing wounds, presumably in battles with the sea mammals.

McGillan Criticizes Operation of Power Plant by Council Committee

Menasha—In a brief talk before the common council at the monthly meeting Tuesday night, Alderman T. McGillan criticized the present method of handling the local utility plant by means of a water and light committee which he claimed was out of date and moved that the city attorney be instructed to make a complete investigation of the water commission operation in Appleton and report thereon at the next regular meeting.

He said he had been studying the question for some time and had reached the decision that a commission was the only means of getting the plant out of politics. The board of education has no trouble in operating the public schools and if the water and light committee was succeeded by a commission he was satisfied there would be no further friction. He is a member of the water and light committee, but nevertheless criticized it as not always being competent to operate the plant.

MAYOR IS OPPOSED
Mayor W. E. Held took exception to the statement and said it was unfair to members of the present water and light committee. He regarded the present committee composed of Aldermen Coyle, Omernich, Small, McGillan and Baldwin as more competent than the average commission. The trouble with a commission is you cannot always elect the men you want, he said. If the committee is faithful in its service there is no reason why it should not function intelligently as a commission, the mayor declared.

Bids for removal of the rails and other material of the interurban track and for new concrete pavement between the rails were held open until a later date. There were nine of the former and eight of the latter. The city clerk was instructed to purchase school zone signs and was instructed also to advertise for bids for 40 tons of egg coal to be used at the city hall. William J. Hahn was appointed a member of the fire and police commission by Mayor Held and his appointment was confirmed by the aldermen.

An invitation from the League of Wisconsin Municipalities for the annual convention to be held at Watertown on May 22-24 was read by City Clerk John Edwaby. The city clerk and superintendent of water and light were instructed to attend the first annual convention of the Wisconsin Municipal Utilities association on May 8 and 9 at Madison with expense paid.

The application of Hugh L. Gear for a rebate of taxes for five years on his proposed new dairy plant was laid upon the table without action until a later date.

WANT BILLS PROMPTLY
Alderman Baldwin presented an objection to merchants furnishing supplies to the poor department letting their bills accumulate for two or three months before turning them in to the poor committee. Upon suggestion of Mayor Held the matter was left in the hands of the poor committee.

The quarterly report of the sealer of weights and measures was read and placed on file. The monthly report of the poor commissioner showed that 17 families received aid during April to the amount of $198.90. The monthly financial report showed a balance on hand in the general fund on April 30 of $4,428; water and light fund, $55,579; board of education, $24,761.85; industrial fund, $4,500.14; library board, $27,858.07; firemen pension fund, $9,418.37; cemetery fund, $4,678.15.

NEW POWER LINE
Permission was given the Wisconsin Michigan Power company to run a new power line from its plant at Appleton across Little Lake Butte des Morts to Abbeys-ave and thence to their substation. It will relieve the high tension wire on Third-st.

Mayor Held, city treasurer, city clerk, poor commissioner and city commissioner of streets were referred to the finance committee and the city attorney to bring in a report. The list of standing committees appointed by Mayor Held was read and placed on file.

An additional truck for the use of the street department was ordered. Rebates on assessment errors were ordered refunded. Application for a certificate of necessity was refused by the city clerk. The city clerk was instructed to read a paper on Statistics and Research. A banquet will be held Wednesday evening. Mr. Kuester will discuss the Diesel engine on the second day of the convention.

CATTLE TRUCK BILL PASSED BY ASSEMBLY

Madison—(AP)—Assemblyman J. C. Hanson's bill providing that cattle shipped in trucks shall be protected against bad weather in the same manner as railroad shippers protect livestock, has been passed by the assembly and sent to the senate.

Its passage followed refusal of the lower house to approve recommendation of the highways committee for killing the Martin bridge state aid bill. It increases the state support for the erection of bridges on state trunk highways over navigable waters forming a boundary between two counties.

The assembly decided instead of killing the bill to lay it over until next Wednesday.

A long debate to allow differences in the terms of village officers from those enforced for other county board members preceded the assembly's refusal to advance the bill to engrossment. The refusal to engross was by 40 to 20 votes.

The assembly passed the Buntin bill, requiring that fireworks containing poison be so labeled.

NEW CHARGES MADE IN SUPERIOR ROW

Echoes of Former Mayor's Regime Heard During Council Meeting

Superior—(AP)—Charges and counter-charges brought echoes of former Mayor Fred Baxter's regime during a meeting of the city council here Tuesday night. City Attorney L. R. McPherson was the target of the opening charge. In a letter to the city council, Leslie G. Ross, one of the publishers of the Superior Journal, asked the removal of McPherson on the ground that he had attempted collusion in regard to city printing contracts.

After denying the charges, Mr. McPherson counter-charged that Ross was motivated by political enmity. Ross was removed from the police and fire commission last week after the city attorney ruled that commission members needed council confirmation.

"When Mr. Ross makes these charges, he speaks with the lips of former Mayor Fred A. Baxter," Mr. McPherson said. McPherson had been removed from the city attorney's post by Mayor Baxter and was replaced when Baxter met defeat at the polls recently.

In his letter Ross alleged that McPherson had proposed that the Journal and the Evening Telegram divide the printing and advertising of the city at a rate higher than that which the Journal agreed to do the work. The Ross communication was tabled and on McPherson recommendation the city clerk was ordered to readvertise for printing bids.

Detective squads surrounded Cell's home, and he was ordered to surrender. Instead, he fired several shots, wounding Patrolman Harry Petrie, and ran into the house. A moment later he emerged from the rear door and met the fire of police stations in the alley. Cell's wife and three children, in the house when he was shot, were unharmed.

The three men, acquaintances of the girl, met her and Manske at a carnival and asked them if they wanted a ride home. Upon their acceptance the men immediately drove from the city, Manske said. At the outskirts of the city Manske was forced to ride in the front seat while two of the men climbed into the rear seat with the girl. The men threatened Manske when he attempted to protect the girl and when about 10 miles out he was forced to leave the car.

CONSERVATION GROUP FAVORS NORTHERN PARK

Madison—(AP)—William A. Mauthe, chairman of the state conservation commission, reported to the legislature's joint finance committee Tuesday that the commission has found the Northern Lakes region in Sawyer-co "ideally suited for a state park."

He said the commission recommended passage of Senator J. H. Carroll's bill, appropriating $500,000 for the purchase of the 6,800 acres. The area is located on the Flambeau river.

Judge Asa Owen, Phillips, also appeared before the committee in favor of the bill.

Carroll's measure proposes to raise the $500,000 by a surtax on incomes. J. H. Leehous, assessor of incomes, Milwaukee, suggested that the commission provide the surtax to be placed after 1930.

Judge Owen quoted C. L. Harrington, state superintendent of forests and parks as having said the proposed state park area is the finest lake and river tract in the state.

The Northern Lakes park bill was one of the sensation-bringing pieces of legislation before the 1927 session of the legislature. Just as the session was about to close the governor vetoed the bill. Sen. Carroll, also author of it then, told the Senate the governor had intimated that he would accept money for signing it. Charges of profanity in reference to the legislature, on the part of the governor were made when attempts were made to "invite" the executive before the senate. The matter blew over.

The new board is made up of three of the commission's attorneys, Martin A. Morrison, as chairman, James A. Horton and Eugene L. Culver.

Yankees Beats Browns And Go Into First Place

WHITE SOX TRIM ATHLETICS WITH THOMAS IN FORM

Babe Ruth Gets Fifth Homer in Yank-St. Louis Battle

BY WILLIAM J. CHIPMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

THE Yankees are back home again, but only by the skin of their teeth. The champions retained their old stamping ground with just half a game to spare late Tuesday as they shaded the Browns by 5 to 3 at Sportsman's park, while the White Sox were trouncing the Athletics by 4 to 2 in a surprising battle on the Chicago front. This combination of events left the Macks and the Browns in a virtual tie, but for second place rather than first.

The Ruppert Rides fired a dozen volleys at young Alvin Crowder. The hardest was Babe Ruth's home run with two aboard in the fourth, but the most effective was Bob Meusel's pinch double in the ninth after the Babe had walked and Gehring had singled. Both scored, carrying the runs which drove Crowder to cover and decided the game. Ruth's homer was his fifth, which placed him, only one behind his pal Gehrig. Bill Dickey also combed Mr. Crowder for all the bases in the fifth.

The defeat of the Athletics at Chicago was brought about largely by Alphonse (Thomas), the hard-luck champion of the American league. Alphonse was pitched better than Bob Grove in a pitchers' battle, which finished with the Athletics in possession of only five small hits.

Boston nosed out Cleveland by 5 to 4 and Detroit shaded Washington by 3 to 2 in minor raids along the American league front.

The Giants once more had to hit for four bases to score, and as a consequence the Pirates rushed off with the decision by 3 to 2 in their first engagement of the season at the Polo grounds. The Bucs tied in the eighth and won in the tenth when Lloyd Waner doubled and Pie Traynor singled.

The Braves remained at the top by shelling the Cardinals, 8 to 5, in an eight-inning rally. Billy Southworth tried to slip past the Bostonians with his second pitching strike, but this was insufficient.

The Cubs had no trouble with the Robins, winning by 9 to 4 and holding on within striking distance of Judge Fuchs' amazing team. Charlie Grimm backed up Art Nehf's fine pitching with two home runs, and Riggs Stephenson hit one.

Frank O'Doul, the reformed pitcher, hit his fifth home run at Philadelphia, enabling the home team to defeat the Reds by 4 to 1. Two were on base in the eighth when Frankie's drive against Rixey scored the right field wall.

The scores:

PREDICT SHAKEUP IN U. I. ATHLETICS

Paul E. Belting Resigns as Head of Athletic Department

Iowa City—(P)—A far reaching shakeup in the athletic department of the University of Iowa was predicted on the campus Wednesday following the announcement that Paul E. Belting had resigned as athletic director.

In accepting Belting's resignation, the university athletic council announced he would remain in charge of physical training classes, but will have no part in the control of athletic teams. Together with a director of intercollegiate athletics, to be appointed, he will serve under a new chairman of the department of athletics and physical education. Belting's resignation followed by two weeks that of Justin M. Barry, head basketball coach, who announced he would go next season to the University of Southern California.

Belting and Barry's resignations came after two years of agitation by alumni, following the football seasons of 1926 and 1927 when the Hawkeyes won only one conference football game.

Bert Ingwersen, head football coach, for a time was included in the alumni attacks, but the agitation against him subsided last season.

Now Ain't She Sweet

Here's Susanna Lucas, Chestnut (S. C.) high school miss who recently established a new record for girls when she ran 75 yards in 8.4 seconds. This is one-fifth second more than the present national record.

For women, Miss Lucas is regarded as one of the best sprinters among women in many years and a place among the best in the nation is predicted for her.

Traded Hurlers Having Success With New Clubs

BY JOHN B. FOSTER

NEW YORK—Two American league managers, Dan Howley of St. Louis and B. Bucky Harris of Detroit, are cashing in on a few predictions they made concerning the pitching talent of their teams.

On a hot March morning in Phoenix, Ariz., where the Detroit Tigers were in training, Manager Harris sat astride a wooden bench at the ball ground, and nodding his head toward George Uhle, said: "That boy is going to win ball games for me this season."

Which was a rather neat prediction, as Uhle has won four straight games for the Tigers to date.

Uhle came to Detroit this season in a trade with Cleveland.

According to Harris, "Uhle wasn't getting all that he should out of his efforts with Cleveland he was tied up to a home town which admired him in a manner too good for his skill."

Uhle, in his best year for the Cleveland club, seemed to be one of the best pitchers in baseball. Pitchers can't be lux and last in the big show.

If Manager Harris can get one pitcher going well for the Tigers—the possibilities of his team will be demonstrated about as effectively as they have so far.

Dan Howley during his spring training in Florida asserted that he had two pitchers in San Gray and "General" Crowder, who would win many games for the Browns this season.

"If they pitch as well as they did last year," said Dan, "I think I have a chance to win. This team can fight and it seems to me to be better balanced than when I began the 1928 season."

Gray and Crowder have delivered winning games, like Uhle, since the current season opened—and Dan Howley is smiling a broad smile.

Crowder now would probably be welcomed back by Washington, which permitted him to go in a trade that helped St. Louis a lot more than it did Washington.

In a way, the trade of Uhle to Detroit by Cleveland is much like that of Crowder by Washington to St. Louis, and of Gray by the Philadelphia Athletics to St. Louis. It is an odd fact that these three pitchers are leading the American flingers so early in the year, for all three were traded away by the teams that could very well use their services right now.

HOLD ROLLER SKATE TOURNEY AT GREEN BAY

Open air roller skating at Bay Beach pavilion, Green Bay will be started Sunday, May 12, according to announcement. ## BOBBY JONES ADMITTED TO U. S. COURT PRACTICE

Atlanta—(P)—Robert Tyre Jones, Jr., better known to golf fans as "Bobby" Jones, three times winner of the national amateur championship and twice holder of the national open title, was admitted to the bar in United States district court Tuesday.

Bobby, who recently finished his law course, at Emory university here, was introduced to Judge Samuel H. Sibley by a member of the law firm of his father, Robert P. Jones.

The youthful attorney is expected to lay aside his practice to compete in the national open championship and to defend his amateur laurels this summer.

ENGLISH PRO FROM GERMANY HAS LOW OPEN CARD OF 69

First Round of Title Play Gets Underway Wednesday; Diegel Has 71

GULLANE, Scotland—(P)—While most of the galleries following the first round of championship play for the British open golf title trailed with the Americans, Percy Alliss, young English pro from the Wannsee club, Berlin, playing with only his partner and their caddies as spectators, scored a 69 to take the lead for the first round away from Leo Diegel who a few minutes before had returned a score of 71.

Alliss slipped into the title quest from the qualifying round with the ties at 162. Although a member of of British Ryder cup team he did not play against the Americans so his appeal to the golf enthusiasts was not enough to draw them to his banner when he started Wednesday morning.

His score of 69 broke the Muirfield course record which was smashed by Diegel with 70 Tuesday in the second qualifying round.

Several thousand followed Diegel and Jolly who rewarded them with scores of 71 and 72 respectively but Alliss, on their heels, played an even better game. His card showed seven birdies. He took three putts on the fifth, sixth and seventh greens. His breeze to the seventeenth hit the flag and then he took three putts from 18 feet. He found a bunker at the home hole but got his four in spite of it.

Diegel's round was featured by his brilliant second shot. He was on every green except the seventeenth in two and there chipped from just off the green and dropped an eight footer. He took 38 putts and 13 were from a foot or even less. At the short sixteenth he tried to get a long put down, over ran the hole and missed coming back.

Early finishers among the American contingent played steadily. Sarazen and MacDonald Smith bagging 73.

Abie Mitchell's 72 was equalled by Jolly in the British lineup behind Alliss.

Early scores: Percy Alliss, Germany, 69. Leo Diegel, United States, 71. Herbert Jolly, Great Britain, 72. Abie Mitchell, Great Britain, 72. Gene Sarazen, United States, 73. MacDonald Smith, United States, 73.

Here's Another Plea For Army-Navy Game

BY LAWRENCE PERRY

Copyright 1929

NEW YORK—That bubble about an Army-Navy game flattened to nothing. It originated in Chicago, born of a desire to stage another service football game there. At least so it looks. So far as any ambition which Chicagoans may have to hold that classic event on the shore of Lake Michigan, the writer is all for it.

There never was a service game held under braver or more spectacular auspices than that between the cadets and the midshipmen in the Soldiers Stadium in Chicago three years ago. Certainly the improvement over the conditions that obtain in a New York ball park when the Army and Navy play was striking.

And if Chicago can reunite the two institutions in athletic contest more power to her. In other words this is a game that should be played. Gridiron contests with classic flavor are too few to warrant the disappearance of a traditional gridiron battle such as that between the Army and Navy.

An eminent naval officer suggests that the secretary of the navy and the secretary of war order the superintendents of the two academies to enter a room in Washington with orders not to come out until they had arrived at an agreement under which the institutions would resume athletic relations.

And personally he does not care whether or not the rules of eligibility at Annapolis and West Point coincide. The great thing, he believes, is to have the game.

It is of course, inevitable that sooner or later the Army and Navy will get together, just as it is inevitable that Harvard and Princeton will. If there is anything in tradition—and there is a lot—any enduring continuance of the present deadlock would be a downright reflection upon an amateur sport. Indeed it is just that already.

All the undercurrent maneuverings, the whisperings, the manipulating make a joke of things that should be sacred. Yet at times the element of humor creeps in. As for instance that Western conference last December when the Big Ten proposed to make a stand as the source of eligibility which would be demanded of opponents. Two or more high ranking army officers were there—possibly of their own initiative, possibly otherwise. At any rate, when the eligibility conditions—they were strict—were finally adopted this sentence was added: "With the exception of the Army and Navy."

Now the Navy appears to have been quite surprised inasmuch as she had not asked for lenience with regard to eligibility and, in view of the fact of her own strict eligibility rule, did not want it. The position was, and is, rather embarrassing.

But no more so then for the Army when Knute Rockne was jockeyed into writing his famous eligibility inquiry to the Army which, later he explained satisfactorily to his West Point comrades.

Let the Army and Navy play football. The Army eligibility conditions are satisfactory to her and are necessary if cadet teams are to be worthy. If the Navy can get along—as she seems to be able to do—under different conditions why that is all right too. But play ball. That is the main thing.

PRINTERS BEAT TUTTLE PRESS IN 10 INNINGS

Staging a rally in the eighth inning and another that tied the count in the ninth, the Post-Crescent-Badger Printing company in the National softball league beat the Tuttle Press team of the American league, 11 and 10 in a ten inning practice game Tuesday. The printers were trailing 9 and 1 in the fourth inning and continued to loat until the two splurges in the eighth and ninth frames. The game was played on the First ward school grounds.

NORTHWESTERN IN EXTRA INNING WIN OVER WISCONSIN

Lapses of Memory by U. W. Hurlers Accounts for First Defeat

MADISON—(P)—Northwestern's giant killers and mental lapses on the part of the Badger pitchers, Thelander and Farber, temporarily kited Wisconsin's hopes for a Big Ten baseball championship here Tuesday afternoon. The Wild Cats, by way of a wild tenth inning spree, won 8 to 3.

Wisconsin's vaunted hitting attack melted away like a spring chicken, while the Evanston nine proved strong in the pinches, to break a 3 to 3 ninth inning tie by scoring five runs on six hits off Maury Farber, the Badger hurling ace.

Starting impressively, Wisconsin slipped across a run in the first inning by way of a clever double steal by "Bo" Cuisinier and Elgin Hall. The little left fielder drew a walk and went to second when Hall also let Panosh put four wide balls past him. Cuisinier stole third and then with Sansfield at the plate, the basemen worked another steal, Cuisinier scoring.

The Wisconsin scoring was closed for the day the following inning when Doyle and Knechtges counted. The catcher drew a base on balls and went to second as Knechtges attempted to bunt. Thelander sacrificed the runners a base, and Cuisinier drove out a tremendous triple to score the two runners.

Northwestern was meek until the fifth inning when a costly error by Hall, who otherwise played a brilliant game in the field, let Rojan's single slip by and allowed Schuetz to score from first and the batter to go to third. Rojan scored on Jacob's single over third.

Then the imminent appeared as the Wild Cats tied the count in the ninth inning on a triple to center by Jacobs, whose efforts netted him five hits in six times at bat, including the three-pitch killing and a home run with two on in the tenth and counted on a brilliant squeeze play in which Thelander fielder Waniata's bunt poorly.

Coach Guy Lowman attempted to use strategy and sent his ace, Farber, to the mound in the tenth. But the Badger star had a bad day for after impressively striking out pinch-hitter McAlvey, the Wild Cat got to him for five runs and six hits. Farber's first mistake was to let lizard's sleeper roll by and then he added to the horror by mishandling an easy out at the plate on a squeeze play, a repetition of the tying play.

Resent Judge's Action in Re- leasing Players and Fining Clubs

BY ALAN J. GOULD
Associated Press Sports Writer
New York —(P)—The smooth surface of organized baseball has been somewhat ruffled by reaction to the disciplinary moves of Commissioner Landis on the "covering-up" of strikes attached to minor league talent. Baseball men familiar with events of the last few months, subsequent to the drastic steps taken by Landis to free the players involved and fine the big league clubs accused of violating the optional player limit, understand that a bloc of American league magnates is again ready to shoulder arms. In fact, the "wise ones" assert that the main purpose

The meeting will be held in the boys department of the "Y" and will be in charge of Eddie Starnard who ran the club last year. Players and managers met a week ago and talked over possibilities of a four club league, according to Starnard, but since then there is enough interest to warrant a six team circuit. Managers of all "gang" teams and players who think they are good enough to make the grade are asked to see Eddie Thursday at the Y. M. C. A.

ROUND OUT BILLS ON APPROPRIATIONS

Measures Will Be Ready for Legislature Within Fort- night, Believe

Madison —(P)—The legislature's major appropriation bills, giving funds to the support of charitable and penal institutions, the state university and the normal schools, may be ready within a fortnight for introduction in the two houses by the joint finance committee. They will probably call for appropriations totalling $91,000,000, members of the finance committee have revealed. Requests to date total more than $105,000,000, and the finance committee has found that it will have to pare this amount at least to the estimated income during the coming biennium—$91,000,000.

In this trimming process, the bill of the Wisconsin association for the disabled, asking $500,000 to erect a children's hospital in connection with the Wisconsin General Hospital at the University, will probably go into the discard.

The bill, by E. G. Smith, of Beloit, has been approved and advanced to engrossment by the Assembly, and a clinching approval, that of refusal to reconsider the engrossment vote, was added before the bill was sent to the finance committee for a public hearing.

Other appropriation measures may also be recommended for indefinite postponement by the joint finance committee, because of the desire to hold appropriations below the limit of anticipated revenues.

Senator Herman E. Boldt, Sheboygan, chairman of the finance committee, today said: "There are ever so many worthy projects proposed in bills before us, but we will not have the money. It's just like the man who admires a $100 suit, if he has but $75 to spend for a suit, he just can't have the higher priced one without getting some credit, and we cannot run the state into debt."

DON'T LET CHICKS GET TOO HUNGRY

Otherwise They Are Apt to Overeat, Farm Expert Warns

Chicks will not overeat unless they are first allowed to get too hungry, according to J. G. Ziegler, of the Wisconsin College of Agriculture. Whenever chicks are allowed to get too hungry bad results are apt to follow if extreme care is not taken in getting them back on feed with our consuming too much liquid or too much feed at one time.

Baby chicks do very well on a good ration which is kept before them continuously. Greatest economy, he says, can be obtained by feeding a complete ration that is inexpensive and that supply the chicks with everything that is needed to make good rapid growth.

The Wisconsin chick ration furnishes all that is necessary for the development of baby chicks. It is inexpensive and can easily be prepared at home. It consists of 80 pounds of ground yellow corn, 5 pounds of chick size raw bone, 5 pounds of chick size oyster shell or high calcium limestone, 1 pound of salt, and skim milk to drink. No water is given the chicks during the first three or four weeks.

If liquid skim milk is not available there are a number of commercial forms of milk which serve the purpose very well. Coarsely ground powdered milk is preferable to fine pulverized. Dried buttermilk is about equal in value to skim milk.

If yellow corn is not available, some other grain may be substituted, however, provision must be made to supply vitamin A which is found in the yellow corn. This can be done by adding five pounds of green alfalfa leaf meal to the ration.

BINGHAMPTON FARMERS BUILD DUST MACHINE

Shiocton — Three farmers near Binghampton, George Smith, Lester Smith, and Louis Wehrmann, got together recently and picked up enough material about their three places to build a barrel dusting machine to treat seed grain for smut control. One provided an old snip barrel. Another furnished a piece of gas pipe, which was put thru the barrel corner-wise, and fastened at each end with a bolt thru the pipe and the flange of the barrel. The outfit was then placed on two saw horses and held in place with nails driven on either side of the pipe axis. The barrel was turned by the farmers standing on either side and rolling the barrel with their hands. George Smith says that they intend to put a crank on both ends next year.

About two hundred bushels of grain was treated with Ceresan with the machine.

Mr. Kluge has fifteen acres of a very good stand of red clover that he expects to use for hay. River flat will supply all the pasture his cattle need this season. He has seeded nine acres of sweet clover that will give him his hay crop next summer.

New London—Ferdinand Knapp, route 1, town of Maple Creek, says that four farmers in the township have finished seeding small grain, a few are half through, and the majority have not started on account of bad weather and wet fields. No one has been able to get onto the fields for two weeks.

PROMISE MEDALS FOR GOOD SERVICE

Guardsmen With Perfect Attendance Records Will Be Rewarded

Madison—(P)—Wisconsin national guardsmen with perfect attendance records, both at armories and camps, are to be awarded medals, ranking up to gold for five years such service.

Col. C. C. Yawkey, Wausau, is donor of the medals, which will bear the bust of Maj. Gen. Charles King in relief on the face, and the legend presented in recognition of perfect service in a wreath on the reverse.

At the end of the guard encampment, records will be checked, and the guardsmen who have had perfect attendance records during the current year will win bronze medals. Those having a three-year record will take silver medals and the five-year-perfects will be awarded gold medals, all of the coins to be hung on a five colored ribbon. The colors will be those of the branches of the service and the background of the state flag.

The likeness of Gen. King is to be placed on the medals to perpetuate his memory among the guardsmen and because of his long record of service.

Col. Yawkey, in presenting the fund for the medals made it plain that he did so to encourage preparedness in Wisconsin, through national guard training.

Of Interest To Farmers

Black Creek — George I. Sasman says his alfalfa and sweet clover are in excellent condition this spring and promise big yields. He has done no spring seeding yet and will not start until his fields are dry and in good condition.

He has just finished feeding the last of a crop of soy bean hay that in palatability and milk production, he considered the equal of the best alfalfa.

Last spring when Mr. Sasman discovered that his alfalfa had winter-killed, he immediately plowed the fields and planted it with soy beans. He lost no time in doing this as he had no other means of getting hay for his cattle. His yield of soy bean hay was somewhere near three tons to the acre.

As his stands of alfalfa are perfect this spring he will sow no soy beans for emergency hay. He may, however, sow a few acres and grind the beans as protein feed, or put them in his silo with his corn.

Mr. Sasman has tried planting soy beans with his corn but he does not like the practice as the beans often fall on the ground and are lost or they become stunted or tangled in the corn, and weeds that grow after cultivation. His considers soy beans important enough as a feed for cattle to be given a piece of ground.

Any farmer who has no alfalfa this season would do well to find out from Mr. Sasman how easy it is to raise a big crop of soy bean hay, and how well this kind of hay serves in milk production.

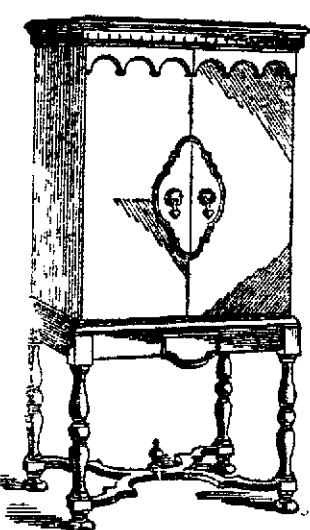

For pasture this season, Mr. Sasman has 10 acres of sweet clover and for hay a mixture of 10 acres of alfalfa and red clover.

Alton, Ill.—Mrs. Binnie Burton probably bought her clothes with her own money. Otherwise, her darling husband would have been so eager to cut up her shoes and take her nice new underclothes.

he amused himself with a large knife and his wife's shoes. The little wife complained, Binnie was arrested and they went to court.

Mrs. Binnie Burton charged wouldn't keep his home tidy and refused to cook for him. Mrs. Binnie charged that she couldn't keep a

The judge told Binnie he must replace the ruined clothes and sent the both of them home to patch up their troubles and keep the peace.

MUCH MATERIAL ON FARM RELIEF IS ON HAND AT LIBRARY

One Book Contains Articles from Innumerable Publications

With banner headlines screaming this and that about Farm Relief, and every third street corner becoming a public platform where the pros and cons of the question are argued, it is of interest to know that the Appleton public library has in its files a wealth of material on both sides of the question. It also is of interest to note that one of the best books on the subject, "Farm Relief," a compilation of briefs and magazine articles by Lemuel T. # BABY CLINIC IS FAVORED BY NURSE

Great Service Could Be Provided Mothers in Appleton, She Holds

Appleton needs a baby clinic just as much as any other city of its size, according to Miss Marie Karsseboom, city nurse.

"There is no urgent need of a preschool clinic," said Miss Karsseboom, "but it is very evident that a great service to mothers and small children could be accomplished through a free clinic of this kind. As it is we are able to help some mothers discover why their children are underweight, backward, and so on, but we have no chance to do follow up work with the cases we discover. When we deliver birth certificates in homes where there are new-born babies, we have a chance to investigate cases, but usually the babies are only two or three weeks old and their deficiencies have not yet become manifest. After they get older, if the mothers do not report their progress, there is no chance to keep an eye on them, and in this work the follow up procedure is the most important of all."

If there were a free clinic, continued the nurse, children could be brought in regularly twice a month, and their progress noted in a scientific manner. Mothers would be taught the proper preparation of the foods the child needs, and with an examination every two weeks the treatment could be changed as the child needed it.

Miss Karsseboom said that a number of doctors in the city are interested in the foundation of a baby clinic. Funds for its support, she said, would no doubt be forthcoming from various charitable organizations in the city.

52 PEOPLE SEEKING POSTAL JOBS HERE

Civil Service Examinations Will Be Written on May 18

Fifty-two persons have made application with the federal postal department to take examinations for clerk-carrier positions to be filled at the Appleton postoffice, according to word received this week by H. J. Frank, secretary of the local board of civil service examiners. The date for the examination has been set for May 18 but Mr. Frank said there were so many applicants that it is likely the examination will have to be written in two groups. One group may write in the morning and the other in the afternoon or one may write May 18 and another May 19. Mr. Frank is waiting word from the federal department for final decision of the manner in which the examinations are to be written. This will be one of the largest classes ever to write civil service examinations here.

YOUNG LAWYER CHANGES NAME, HANGS SHINGLE

If you're a good man the world will beat a path to your door, but there are certain obstacles that a professional man might just as well remove before he hangs out his shingle. So Carl William Danhusen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Danhusen, 1129 W. Harris st., decided to make things as comfortable as possible for his clients by making his name easier to pronounce. When he started practicing at 117 W. Main st., Madison, last fall, he had his name changed from Danhusen to Danhusen, and his shingle now reads, Carl William Danhusen, attorney and counsellor at law.

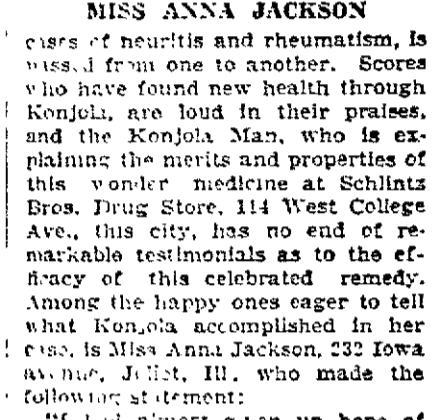

Mr. Danhusen, a graduate of Appleton high school and the University of Wisconsin, recently received his bachelor of laws degree from the university.

London — (AP)—Brig. Gen. Percy Groves, honorary secretary of the Air League of the British Empire, pointed out that Germany's civil aviators flew 1,000 miles daily last year while England's were doing 3,000 miles. He especially urged development of commercial aviation in the industrial regions of northern England.

HAD DESPAIRED OF RELIEF: THEN SHE HEARD OF KONJOLA

Nervousness and Indigestion Are Banished Through Use of This Advanced Medicine

Like tidings of great joy the praise of this new medicine—Konjola—is spreading with rapidity throughout this city and vicinity, as word of its astounding success in the relief of stomach, liver, kidney and bowel troubles, as well as in cases of neuritis and rheumatism, is used from one to another. Scores who have found new health through Konjola, are loud in their praises, and the Konjola Man, who is explaining the merits and properties of this wonder medicine at Schlutz Bros. Drug Store, 114 West College Ave., this city, has no end of remarkable testimonials as to the efficacy of this celebrated remedy.

Among the happy ones eager to tell what Konjola accomplished in her case, is Miss Anna Jackson, 232 Iowa avenue, Joliet, Ill., who made the following statement:

"I had almost given up hope of ever being relieved of my health troubles when Konjola was brought to my attention," said Miss Jackson. "I have taken a treatment and now my health is all that I ever hoped it to be."

"My nerves were so upset that I was really almost a wreck. I could stand nothing, even the playing of children around me was enough to drive me frantic. Noises of any kind were almost more than I could bear and it seemed to me that I was steadily getting worse. To add to my troubles I was constipated and was addicted to taking strong laxatives all the time. After a short time their effect wore off and then I would be as bad as before taking. I also had indigestion very bad and everything that I ate would sour on my stomach and I was always belching up gasses and hot, sour liquids. It was constant misery for me."

"I heard about Konjola from someone who had not faith in medicines and I knew that if she would endorse any remedy it certainly must have merit. Of course, I wouldn't let an opportunity to regain my health slip away from me and so I decided to give Konjola a trial. How happy I am that I did because it has proved to be the stepping stone to new and glorious health. It was almost unbelievable the way in which Konjola worked on my inner-system—soothing, restoring, invigorating all the organs. My nerves became quiet, noises, children—nothing caused me any distress. I was so happy at this relief that I hardly knew what to do. So you can realize my feeling when the constipation disappeared and I was able to throw all laxatives in the waste basket. Then I noticed, surprising as it sounds it is the absolute truth, that the indigestion had begun to clear up. To test this out I tried foods that always harmed me and they digested perfectly. Now, the gas does not form, belching and all other symptoms are ended. What a happy person I am and Konjola receives the credit."

The Konjola Man is at Schlutz Bros. Drug Store, 114 West College Ave., Appleton, where he is daily meeting the public, introducing and explaining the merits of this medicine. Free samples given.

MARSHFIELD MAN NAMED PRESIDENT OF BANKERS ASSN.

300 Attend Annual Meeting of Financiers of Sixth District

New London—Three hundred people, including many from out of town, were seated at the largest banquet ever held in the city. The occasion was the annual gathering of the sixth group of Wisconsin bankers and though of gigantic proportions for a city of New London's size the entire program was carried out in good form. Greetings and special window displays and flags made the streets attractive and an elaborate program entertained the women guests throughout the day.

The high school band grouped on the steps of the Grand theatre greeted visitors between 9 and 10 o'clock and this was closely followed by a business session in the theatre. Mayor Wendlandt at the council meeting Tuesday evening. The city clerk again was granted permission to close the clerk's office on Saturday afternoons. This change will be in effect until Oct. 1. As in the past, when the fifteenth day of the month falls on Saturday the office will be kept open to enable citizens to pay their light bills. A street light was ordered between Waupaca and Shiocton-sts.

The proposed sewer to remedy sewerage disposal of the Hamilton and Sons cannery plant was taken up. Street Commissioner Giese explained that the sewerage from this plant is at present emptying into the Assonet sewer which is too small to handle the work at present, and with the expansion of Hamilton and Sons' plant he believed it best to run a new line to Waupaca-st by emptying the waste into a concrete basin. During the high water season this sewerage could be lifted by means of a pump and in this way would stop the waste matter from backing up into the plant. He estimated the cost at $1,500 which would consist of a concrete basin, and approximately 500 feet of 18-inch pipe.

The matter of repairing the Shawanost pavement was held over temporarily. This, it was pointed out, may prove to be an expensive job, since part of the concrete road must be torn up.

The matter of graveling some of the city streets came in for considerable discussion which discussion ended when the aldermen decided to continue graveling, as at present they can secure the gravel from Waupaca-co at a much cheaper rate than they can haul it themselves.

Drives about the city and tours of the various manufacturing plants entertained guests until dinner was served at 6 o'clock.

Tables at Werner's hall were made attractive by the use of potted flowers which were decorated by Ross. Community singing, a talk by W. H. Hutton and the music of an orchestra entertained the diners.

Perhaps the most outstanding note of general interest of the entire day was the talk of Merton S. Rice at the banquet. In his talk on the value of Great Men he outlined the need of idealism in our national affairs. In defining his point, Mr. Rice asserted that the nation needs patriotism which is sought of profit and from his searchings of the annals of history brought before his audience the names of George Washington, Abraham Lincoln as the nation's two truly great men.

Mr. Rice's manner of presenting these two figures was unique, his speech was a note in keeping with the moment, and his tributes to the heroes of the nation appealing. "The difference between being celebrated and in being great is something not easily calculated," he said. "Greatness knows no boundary lines. It crosses border lines of states and countries and places its great ones among the galaxy of the world."

HIGH CLIFF HERDS ARE DEPLETED BY STRANGE DISEASE

Special to Post-Crescent—High Cliff—Mrs. Emma Stocker who conducts a dairy farm at High Cliff, lost four valuable Guernsey cows in rapid succession by a strange malady unknown before in this locality. A state veterinarian was called in, upon examination of the animals and their carcasses it was found that the blood of the animals had become very thin and scant, large blood clots were found under the skin, the veins became like a sieve and burst. The doctor declared this condition was brought on by the feeding of Sweet clover ensilage, with not sufficient rations of hay and roughage. This brought on a poisoning. The cows appeared normal with no temperature, chewing their cud while in the first stages and appearing perfectly healthy. Suddenly swellings formed on the shoulders of some of the cows, while others had no swelling and blood from the nose. All animals died within a very short time after having been seized by this strange malady.

SUGGEST TWO PLANS TO PAY FOR NEW GYM

Proposals Will Be Considered at Joint Meeting of Council and Board

Kaukauna—Two plans for building a new high school auditorium and gymnasium were presented to the city council Tuesday evening by Louis F. Nelson, representing the school board. He pointed out that with a new auditorium about $5,000 a year could be saved by cutting down expense of the present auditorium.

One plan that was suggested was that the city loan the school board $30,000 from the $100,000 insurance money recently received from the death of J. Q. Posson. The money would be paid at the rate of $5,000 a year.

The second plan was the floating of a bond issue, paying it off by the investment return of the Posson insurance money. Mr. Nelson stated that it was an opportune time to broach the subject in view of the fact that the Chicago and Northwestern railroad closed a work department here and the Union Bag and Paper mill is to close, but adding that the people of the city should look forward in order to have the community progress.

Mayor W. C. Sullivan advised holding a joint meeting of the council, school board, and the utility commission. He said the only opposition to having an auditorium would be the financial burden it would incur. Alderman George L. Smith moved that a joint meeting be held at the next council meeting. The motion was carried.

WILL GIVE EMPLOYMENT

Mr. Nelson pointed out that there is no major construction work planned in the city for the summer, and that the erection of an auditorium would give a large number of employment. Mrs. John H. Koenig, president of the board, said that physical education cannot be given in the school, and that it is required by state law. Graduation exercises must be held in the present auditorium which is practically a disgrace to the city, she said.

Lester Brenzel appeared before the council and requested aid for the American Legion July 4 celebration. It was decided to give $500 for a band and fireworks. Members of the council brought out that a celebration here would help keep the people in the city and that it shows consideration for those who are unable to leave the city. It also was decided to give the Legion $50 toward a Memorial Day program.

Chief of Police R. H. McCarty reported on several poor cases. Mayor Sullivan said that the city department and factories should discourage "Boaters" as it only burdens the city. It raises the tax rate eventually, he pointed out. People come here and get a job for sometime and then are without work or a place to live. The city must care for them, he said.

Gust Grimmer asked the council to take action against dog owners in his neighborhood as the dogs are damaging property. The matter was referred to the police department. A resolution recommending the purchasing of High Cliff and vicinity by the state for a state park was passed.

An invitation was read to the council to attend the first annual convention of the Wisconsin Municipal Utility Association at Madison Wednesday and Thursday. It was decided to send Mayor Sullivan with a committee to represent the city at the meeting. The association was founded in Kaukauna last summer and Charles Kaught is president.

A resolution for a contract with the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad company for permission to put an electric power line over the tracks at the Molech Foundry and Machine company was passed. The next meeting of the council will be held next Tuesday.

They are made by disabled soldiers who cannot do other work.

It was decided to give a first prize of $2 and a second prize of $1 for the best posters in the contest in the schools. Seven new members were taken into the auxiliary. They are Mrs. E. ### KEEN COMPETITION RESULTS IN SALE OF NEW YORK ISSUE

Successful Bidder Was Not Figured to Participate in Transaction

BY CHARLES F. SPEARE
Copyright, 1929, by Cons. Press
Wall Street, New York—Financial Review and Outlook—The keenest competition for a New York City issue in years developed Tuesday at the sale of $52,000,000 5 1/2 per cent corporate stock while the money market was quoting call loans at 14 per cent and bankers throughout the east were raising their rates on acceptances.

The successful bidder for the largest issue that New York has sold in over a year was Kuhn, Loeb & Company, who had not been expected to participate in the sale. The figure that they put on the issue was 101.412. The National City company, which has been the successful bidder in the two previous sales and had, with its associates, secured first of the last six New York City bond offerings, put in a bid nearly one point under that of Kuhn, Loeb and Co.

The lowest of the important bidders was the First Securities Corporation, identified with the Baker and Morgan interests, whose figure was 100.04. For a while it was thought that the bid of the Chase Securities corporation would win out for it was about 1/2 point higher than the one earlier read off by the National City company. The Halsey Stuart & Company group bid 100.263 for "all or none" of the bonds and 100.15 for "all or any part."

Kuhn, Loeb & Co. one of the largest of the international banking houses, had to share their bonds with a small investor who was able to get $9,000 of the $52,000,000 of offered bonds ranging from 101 1/2 up to 109.

SALE IS SIGNIFICANT

The sale was significant for the competition that it developed between the largest bond organizations in the country and for the price paid by the successful bidder; also for the unusual spread between the maximum and the minimum bids of two equally important distributors of investment securities.

The sale also emphasizes the high credit of New York City, which was able to obtain a premium of 734.133 on its short term notes at a time when the general bond market has been killed by high money rates.

Speaking in San Francisco Tuesday, Governor Roy A. Young of the federal reserve board admitted that present money rates have seriously affected the investment market. This fact has been confirmed time and time again within the last few months by important wholesalers and retailers of investment securities.

The 14 per cent renewal rate for call money Tuesday was followed by an advance in bankers' acceptances of 1/4 of 1 per cent. This brings such paper back to approximately the high rates that prevailed early in April. The demand for commercial paper has been increasing recently. It is with difficulty that it is being held at 6 per cent by the federal reserve board.

Oldest Mill In City Nears End Of Activity

Kaukauna—With the closing of the Union Bag and Paper company here in the near future the oldest mill in the city will pass out of Kaukauna's industrial life. According to an announcement by the mill officials Tuesday, the plant will cease operations permanently within the next two months as it cannot be operated profitably with the pulp supply far removed from here.

The heater room of the plant was the site of an old flour mill which was discontinued about 50 years ago, according to A. Mankosky, an old Kaukauna resident. It also is believed that the first bank in this city was located there. The first mill in the city was called the Kaukauna Paper mill and was operated by John Stovekin. The mill was situated at the present location of the Union Bag and Paper company.

The paper was made from straw hauled in by farmers living in this vicinity at that time. The factory at first housed one large cylinder machine which made the paper. Later another machine was installed and the first machine was rebuilt in to a fourdrinier machine.

About 35 years ago the structure burned down and was rebuilt. The building was erected from rock hauled from the river rapids here while some was quarried here. Much of the rock for the building was hauled by L. Lindner. The mill was then called the Western Union Bag company. New water wheels and beaters were put in the mill.

Kaukauna — The operetta "The Cobbler and the Elves," to be given with the high school operetta, "Penny Buns and Roses" Friday and Saturday will be a reminder of childhood days and nursery stories. One night a number of elves visit his workshop and make a pair of shoes for the old couple. This is repeated until the cobbler is well on his way to prosperity. He is unable to find out who makes the shoes for him and his wife suggests they hide during the night and find out. They discover the elves doing the work for them and he resolves to do them a favor in return. He makes them all tiny pairs of shoes which they take and vanish in the forest. The play is interspersed with choruses of elves who sing.

Other members of the cast are the Leather Man, played by Wesley Jirkowicz, the Rich Man, played by Miss Marguerite Clark, and Elves, played by Misses Jane Cech, Doris Feldt, and Alvera Lopas.

FINANCIER KILLS SELF, SHOTS GIRL

Tragedy Results After Disagreement at Home Over Love Affair

Los Angeles—(AP)—Frank J. Williams, financier, today lay dead from a self-inflicted bullet wound and Miss Peggy Troxel, 18, was in a hospital seriously wounded as the result of a disagreement between them at the girl's residence here last night.

The financier, who was president of a securities company here and an officer in other southern California companies, had been divorced by his wife and was infatuated with Miss Troxel. E. Neil Ames, attorney for Williams said, Miss Troxel is the daughter of a Chula Vista, Calif., banker and had been married, Ames added. He declared it was a letter she received from her former husband which precipitated the quarrel.

Last night Williams went to the home of Misses Phyllis Ruth and Helen Grant, where Miss Troxel was staying, and asked to see her alone. The shooting followed. Williams died in a hospital some hours later. Miss Troxel's left eye was destroyed and her nose shattered by a bullet. Hospital attendants said she likely would recover.

Ames told the police that Williams had made a will leaving his property to a young daughter by a former marriage.

RICH GIRL-POOR GIRL

By RUTH DEWEY GROVES

CHAPTER XXV

"So sure of it that I'm ready to give a few hours to stepping the bus to clinch it," Stephen said, his salesmanship overriding his resentment. "This man's a sell, sure enough, Mr. Mettle. And I'm not seeing any wings on him to tell me so. He's a tough customer, but he wants a fast car, and he handles the same money we get from other people."

Mr. Mettle hesitated. "You know what will happen if we send the car out on the road and he doesn't buy," he said thoughtfully. "We'll have to make a demonstration allowance on it when we put it back on the floor."

Stephen had an answer for that. "I'll gamble on my judgment this time," he said eagerly. "Let me take it out. If the sale flops I'll sign over to you my commission on the next car I sell."

Mr. Mettle agreed, not averse to accepting Stephen's judgment when there was a possible gain with no risk to his company.

"I have him down for Wednesday," Stephen said, "but I've got his telephone number. Hadn't I better give him a ring? We can't hold the car for him."

"Go ahead, but remember, I warned you," Mr. Mettle replied, to let himself out in the event that anything went wrong.

Stephen was soon in communication with Lefty Flint. They made an appointment for 1 o'clock that afternoon.

"The day was fair, so Stephen had no objection to make when Lefty suggested going out to Long Island."

Lefty waxed enthusiastic over the car before they had crossed the Queensboro bridge. He seemed especially pleased with its "pick-up."

"They made quick work of the Queens boulevard and Stephen headed for an open side road. Stephen covered the distance with moderate speed, explaining to Lefty that he was giving the road a "once over."

There were no ruts or holes, so he turned back, remarking to his companion that the car had been broken in at the factory. Still, it would be given it pretty harsh treatment to throw it wide open, he said. But Lefty told him to go ahead.

"And if she makes it," he added importantly, "we'll drop in at a place I know out here and close the deal."

"All right. Hold your breath and sit tight," Stephen admonished Lefty Flint.

Stephen kept his eyes glued to the road and Lefty never swerved his glance from the evermounting speedometer.

At a hundred and two he reached out and touched Stephen's arm. "O. K.," he yelled.

Gradually the car slowed down to 90, to 80, to 70, to 60 and until it appeared to the two men to be creeping along at 50.

Then Stephen turned to his companion, a great grin on his face. "When she's done 10,000 miles," he said, "you can step her up to..."

"Never mind," Lefty broke in. "I'm satisfied. Let's go. If there's a cop anywhere around and he saw that we'll get the works."

Stephen headed back toward the highway.

"Take the first turn to the right," Lefty directed when they reached it. "Why not go back to the office?" Stephen asked. "We can't close the deal out here."

"Sure," Lefty agreed. "I know that. Don't worry. The sale's made. I just want to have a friend look over."

"Give you a check for the full amount when we get back to New York," Lefty went on reassuringly. "Turn to the left at the light and cross the tracks."

Stephen followed his directions, a little puzzled about their destination. It looked like a low class neighborhood, he thought.

"Take it easy," Lefty advised. "We haven't far to go."

Stephen slowed and looked around. "Over there," Lefty said, indicating a postcolonial house that stood on a corner.

The front door bore a name in weather-beaten paint, of a color to match the dreary dun of the house itself. Stephen just could make it out. "J. B.'s Place." Whatever was meant by place, he told himself, beginning to dislike the idea of stopping there.

But the car practically belonged to Lefty, he reasoned.

He turned in on the dirt driveway and stopped before the rickety front steps. Lefty sprang out at once.

"Lock 'er up and come in," he said authoritatively.

Stephen reached for his keys and locked transmission gear, then followed Lefty into J. B.'s Place. He suspected that it was a speakeasy.

Lefty was at the soft drink bar asking for J. B. The bartender perked a thumb toward the back of the house and muttered something too low for Stephen to hear.

Lefty turned and motioned Stephen to follow him. They went through a grimy hall to a rear room where they wound the proprietor entertaining a few friends in private.

"Have a drink?" he was asked and Stephen said he would have beer.

The day had turned unexpectedly warm. The light topcoat Stephen had donned when he left the office was uncomfortable indoors. He took it off before seating himself at a table with Lefty and J. B. and threw it over a nearby chair.

And in a pocket of it he had thrust the keys to the car. Two others in that room knew this as well as he. In a word and a gesture Lefty had imparted the information to the bartender as soon as he'd entered the place.

A quick glance when the bartender came for their order, a sly movement with his foot, and the chair, with Stephen's coat, had been pushed aside, almost out of his sight.

There was a delay after that and Lefty began to tell J. B. about "his" new car, praising it to the sky.

"Let's have a look at it," the other said.

"Sure," Lefty agreed, "in a minute. Here's Gungah Dhin."

They strolled over their glasses when, a few minutes later, an electric player piano suddenly emitted a raucous burst of sound.

The noise got on Stephen's nerves. Lefty saw with satisfaction that his mind was, for the moment at least, taken off the car at the curb.

Stephen grew restless as Lefty continued to put off showing the car to J. B. Finally he glanced at his watch and rose.

Lefty got up, too, as did J. B.

"Well, let's see what she looks like," J. B. said interestedly. "Wish you luck in her, Lefty, on your next trip."

When they reached the front door Stephen paused to put on his topcoat. Lefty and J. B. stepped through ahead of him. When he followed they were standing surveying the driveway with well-assumed surprise on their respective features.

The driveway was empty! The gleaming, powerful thing of beauty and speed that he had left standing there a half-hour before was gone.

LONDON BUZZES AS PRESENTATION DATE AT MAY COURT NEARS

Miss Helen Wills Will Wear Gown With Tennis Racquet Motif

BY LEMUEL F. PARTON
Copyright, 1929, by Cons. Press
New York—Probably no event of recent years has caused, in New York society circles, so much buzz and excitement, as the news that Miss Helen Wills will wear a gown with tennis racquet motif at her presentation to the May court in London. This agitation was just beginning to die down, when still another bulletin announced that Miss Wills would carry a fan, fashioned in the form of a racquet.

There have been heavy casualties among dowagers here who have first hand knowledge of the austerities of Queen Mary's court, and who have failed to observe that even the oldest and sternest conventions may be, and occasionally are, challenged by breezy American youth.

It is recalled that Suzanne Lengier became persona non grata at the English court when, after her presentation, she presented a professional. Queen Mary is fastidious about little things and formalists here are wondering whether, like Queen Victoria, on the occasion of a famous courtship, she will "fail to be amused."

The court presentations will be held Thursday and Friday. As these eventful days draw near, it is revealed that democratic America has a rapt and romantic interest in these story-book doings of royalty.

MANY HAVE FAILED

New York salons are filled with intimate gossip in which it is sold how many of money and social prestige have been shattered against the walls of Buckingham palace in unavailing efforts to obtain presentations for wives and daughters; how other patient, resourceful and munificent campaigns have at last won through; stories of "Heartbreak House" and the castle of Dreams. Tabloid headlines are streamers and banners of romance for the multitude, with no detail of knightly and chivalry omitted.

The New York haut monde keeps itself rather intimately informed about these doings. It now learns, through continuous London "fitting," that London has been a rather sanguinary battleground this year, with new American fortunes going a-roving in search of coronets. Marked down British royalty is said to have profited immensely, with dukes serving as social mentors and presumably or actually charting the devious ways which may or may not lead at last to the Throne-room. It is said that the money tidal wave in America during the last few years has caused a number of ill-advised and hopeless campaigns in London, and that the English court is drawing the circle a bit narrower and that too much money is becoming almost a bar sinister.

ALL ARE CHARMING

She will introduce to Queen Mary the debutantes from Holland. Baronne Cartier de Marchienne, wife of the Belgian ambassador, who will present the Belgian debutantes, also is American-born as are the German and Bulgarian ambassadors and the Countess Rogeri of Villanova, who will make the Italian presentations. All are beautiful, charming and entirely personable in court circles.

Debutantes at May courts include Miss Roberta Thomas, daughter of Mrs. J. R. Thomas, of the American embassy, and Miss Peggy Tyner, of Washington. Miss Tyner's mother, Mrs. Elson Tyner, has invited the London elite to one of the most magnificent balls of court series at the Berkeley.

London hair dressers, drapers, jewelers, photographers and caterers are reaping a rich harvest. Having crossed the Alps, Hannibal is munificent and there is no quibbling should the occasion require an extra quater of two diamonds or sapphires. During the week, London is blazing with brilliant functions, and after the presentation ceremonies there will be gorgeous doings at such places as Ciro's, the Cafe de Paris and the Kit Kat Club. Scores of American peereesses will attend from all parts of Europe. Among them will be the Marchioness Curzon of Kedleston; Lady Lister-Kaye, formerly a southern belle, of Louisiana; Lady Ronald Lindsay, formerly Miss Elizabeth Hoyt of New York; the Countess Beatty; the countess of Granard. Lady Astor, Mildred Countess of Gosford and the countess of Portsmouth, born in the Kentucky blue grass region.

But there is one of Queen Mary's decree which none will dare flout. Skirts must hang no more than eight or possibly eight and one-sixteenth inches above the floor.

STUDY PROGRESS OF WATCH-MAKING IN U. S.

Washington—(AP)—A survey of the last year's efforts to build up the standards of watch-making and the study of science of time keeping in America was undertaken today by the members of the Horological Institute of America.

Meeting in the National Academy of sciences, many of the members also had their first opportunity to view the $100,000 collections of fine watches and pocket chronometers of the late James Ward Packard, inventor and automotive engineer, which has been turned over to the institute for preservation and use.

TELEPHONE CO. IN CALIFORNIA IS DUE FOR INVESTIGATION

Legislature Believes Firm Is Hiding Part of Its Profits

BY BEN G. KLINE
Copyright, 1929, by Cons. Press
San Francisco—Judging from resolutions and bills before the state legislature, the attitude of various cities of California and actions of the state railroad commission, the American Telephone and Telegraph company, or at least its subsidiaries in this state, are about to become one of the most investigated industries of the nation.

The Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company, lusty western child of what unfriendly critics refer to as the Zephon trust about two years ago asked the state railroad commission for increases in subscriber rates which would bring in some $7,000,000 additional revenue. The company pointed out that rates in the San Francisco bay district had remained unchanged for many years and contended that they were insubstantial to return to fair profit upon the company's investment.

This request caused widespread protest from individuals, business firms and civic organizations, and attorneys representing the various municipalities concerned participated in the investigation and hearings of the company's case. This case was nearing its conclusion when late last week the commission decided it had the wrong number; or a poor connection or something and on its own motion ordered an investigation of the Southern California Telephone company, Los Angeles subsidiary of the Pacific.

MORE IS INNOVATION

This move was an innovation in rate regulation and was brought about by testimony indicating that through rates in northern California are too low to net the company a profit; the company actually makes a profit of over 8 per cent in the state. The inevitable conclusion was that the rates in the south had been such as to more than make up the deficiency in the north, so an investigation of rates service and practices in the south was ordered.

The rates which prevail in Los Angeles were allowed by the railroad commission five years ago upon an application and a hearing similar to that being held here. The company convinced the commission that previous rates were insufficient to net a fair profit. Now the commission finds that a proper decision with regard to the one company cannot be rendered without studying inter-relating companies. It finds that pocketing of man's right pants at one time and his left at another does not reveal how well supplied he is with cash.

Members of the state legislature seem to believe that even to examine the two pockets at the same time will not be sufficient because both companies are linked in a nationwide system. They suspect the family purse is in an inside coat pocket outside the state. Before the legislature now is a measure which would appropriate $150,000 for an investigation of tolls and the relations of companies within the state and also a resolution which would ask congress to authorize investigation of the inter-relations of phone companies throughout the nation.

When a subscriber in Los Angeles puts in a call to a point beyond the state boundary the toll he pays is split between the company he says, the company operating in the other state and the parent company in California, each of which in turn splits its portion with the nationwide parent company in payment for various services—loans, patents, equipment, lines etc. The railroad commission has found that proper rates in Los Angeles cannot be fixed

RADIO BOARD NOW BUCKLING DOWN TO JOB WITH MORE PEP

Commission Is Fully Organized for First Time Since Last February

BY ROBERT MACK
Copyright, 1929, by Cons. Press
Washington—Either by sheer accident or by premeditated cunning President Hoover has settled the friendly quarrel between the engineering and lawyers who have contended that their respective professions should hold the balance of power in radio regulation with three of their kind sitting on the five-man federal radio commission.

The new commission stands equally divided as between these basic professions. Strange as it may seem it has figuratively two-and-one-half lawyers and the same amount of commissioned engineering personnel. William D. L. Starbuck, newly appointed commissioner for the eastern zone is the "key" man. He's both engineer and lawyer.

Engineers believe radio is primarily a technical problem and should be managed by engineers, with just a smattering of legal talent. The lawyers hold that the engineers are "narrow" and can not see beyond the laboratory or deal with the public. Everybody admits that both are necessary. The two main divisions of the commission are its engineering and legal branches.

Fully organized for the first time since last February, the commission is buckling down to its task with renewed vigor. Its first official act as a new body likely will be in its reorganization and selection of a chairman to sit until Dec. 31, when the life of the commission is scheduled to expire. Before the commission gets the opportunity to settle down to business, however, it must undergo another seige before the senate interstate commerce committee which begins hearings Wednesday on the Couzens bill to create a federal communications commission.

TWO REAL LAWYERS

The two full-fledged lawyer members of the commission are Judge Ira E. Robinson, present chairman, and Judge Eugene O. Sykes, vice chairman. Commissioner Harold A. Lafount is a civil engineer; Major Charles McK. Saltzman is an engineer with vast experience in communications while Mr. Starbuck is the happy combination of a graduate mechanical engineer who has worked at the business and a patent attorney of no meager experience.

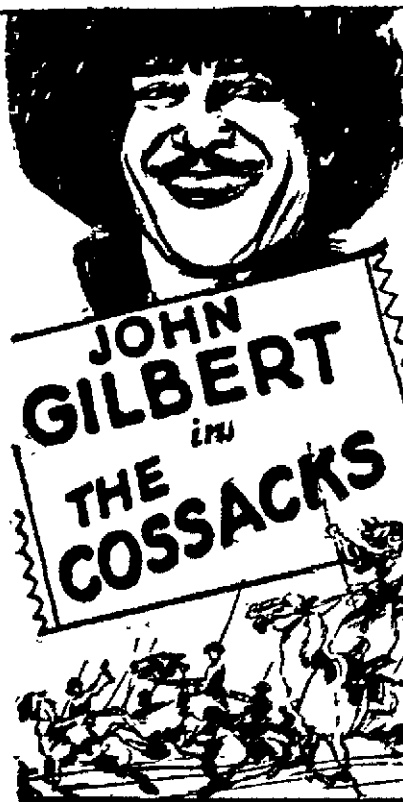

The competition for the chairmanship is between the three republican members, Robinson, Lafount and Saltzman. The selection is made by the commission itself. The fact that Judge Robinson has served as chairman since his appointment in March a year ago, leads to the belief that he will relinquish that post, although this is not definite. Commissioner Lafount seems to be the logical successor if any change is made.

The five commissioners will be called by the senate committee in its task of accumulating all possible information to assist it in drafting what is to be a new basic radio law. The Couzens bill which would set up a communications commission with all the powers of wires and wireless now held by the commission and other governmental agencies is merely a basis for discussion. It will be revamped and rewritten many times during the months required for the comprehensive, thoroughgoing investigation contemplated. Already Chairman Couzens himself and senator Dill of Washington have drafted several proposed amendments to the bill.

Without taking the split with the parent California company into consideration. Those sponsoring the legislative resolution at the state capital believe that a nation wide survey is necessary before proper local rates can be determined.

4 HIGHWAY PROJECTS WILL COST $725,000

Eau Claire—(AP)—Four highway projects in this division will cost $725,000, according to the low bids announced by William F. Baumgartner, division engineer for the Wisconsin Highway commission.

Two paving projects were in the list, including 12.35 miles of concrete on highway 12 from the Clark-co line west through Fairchild to Augusta and 10.65 miles of concrete on highway 29 between Owen and Abbotsford.

1,600 RELIGIOUS REBELS ARE ROUTED BY FEDERALS

Mexico City—(AP)—Dispatches today from Guadalajara told how a band of 1,600 "Cristeros" fought their way through the town of Colatlan, Jalisco, to the church of San Nicolas, which they tried in vain to hold against federal troops of General Saturnino Cedillo.

The insurgents were driven from the church having 68 dead and 48 wounded. They retreated to a nearby cemetery where federal reinforcements attacked them from the rear and they fled into the mountains. It was the second attack in three days on Colatlan, which the federales recently recaptured from the so-called religious rebels.

DRY AGENTS MAKE BIG HAUL NEAR MILWAUKEE

Milwaukee—(AP)—Two 100-gallon stills, 1,600 gallons of mash and 15 gallons of whisky were found by federal prohibition agents when they raided a farm near here Tuesday night. At another farm nearby the agents found a tank containing 50 gallons of whisky, buried in a barn. Two men were arrested.

TENNIS BECOMING POPULAR AGAIN?

Interest in Game Appears to Have Been Revived This Spring

Popularity of tennis appears to have been revived in Appleton this spring.

Although few days of ideal weather have been experienced so far, the city's tennis courts have been crowded practically every day, and players have been sitting around on the sidelines waiting for their turn to play.

If the popularity of the game holds up for the remainder of the spring, more courts probably will be constructed according to Prof. O. P. Fairfield, chairman of the park board.

"It is the intent of the board, insofar as it is possible, to satisfy the demand for recreation in the city," he said. "If the call for courts continues as it has so far this spring, more courts undoubtedly will be built."

Six tennis courts are located in Pierce park, two in Albia park, and one in Jones park. If new courts are deemed necessary, they probably will be laid in Erb and Bellaire parks.

The 11 courts of the Lawrence college grounds and the three in the rear of the Y. M. C. A. building are just as crowded as those in the city parks.

STOCK SPECULATION IS RESTRICTED BY HIGH CALL MONEY

Aggers and Bulls Fight for Control but Fail to Make Many Gains

BY STANLEY W. FENOSIL
Associated Press Financial Editor

New York—(P)—High money rates continued to have a restrictive effect on speculative operations in the stock market. Control of the day's movement shifted frequently between the "bulls" and the "bears" but the former apparently failed to attract a large volume of buying and the latter unsuccessful in forging and extensive liquidation.

Call money renewed at 14 per cent with the supply relatively small. Little money from out of town was in evidence, and New York banks apparently were disinclined to help the market by increasing their rediscounts at the Federal Reserve bank. Some brokers held out hope of lower money rates before the day was over but bankers were not so optimistic.

Trade news continued favorable. Weekly steel trade reviews published today showed no indication of any recession in activity, with most of the leading plants operating below rated capacity. Iron ore was stated that "steel production is diminished, but a slight decline in the volume of specifications has been reflected in a proportionate shortening of deliveries, adding that no definite announcement regarding third quarter quotations has been made by producers, but advances in sheets, bars, plates and hapes are freely mentioned as possible.

Crude oil production showed a moderate reduction last week, and freight loadings are being maintained at a high rate. The latest batch of quarterly earnings statements continue to make favorable comparison with the same period of last year. The increased operating efficiency of the railroads reflected in the proportionately smaller gain in income than in gross is considered one of the most encouraging aspects of the railroad situation.

Heavy liquidation of radio, presumably for the account of the Meen interests which have been active in that stock, appeared to have been completed, at least temporarily, today, and the stock slipped back to a low of 92 1/2 to 101 1/4. All American, Rumely, common and preferred, Murray Corporation, Warren Brothers, United Aircraft, American and Foreign Power and Borg Warner, which have been under intermittent selling pressure all week, rallied 3 to 6 1/2 points above yesterday's final quotations. Murray touching a new high at 98 3/4. Victor Chemical, which had slipped to more than 100 points below last night's quotations, General Motors failed to make such response to predictions of small extra dividend tomorrow, and Chrysler was rather heavily sold during the morning.

SUGAR CO. RESUMES DIVIDEND PAYMENTS

New York—(P)—Directors of the American Sugar Refining company today resumed dividends on the common stock by declaring a quarterly dividend of $1.25. The company has not paid any dividends since Jan. 2, 1928, when the stock was paying $5 annually. The dividend is payable July 2 to stock of record June 5.

LIGHTWEIGHT HOGS
Chicago—(P)—Unevenness cropped out in the hog market here today. A sharp line of distinction was drawn between light weight hogs weighing less than 160 lbs. and those weighing more. The latter were 15 to 25 lower, but constituted only a small part of the supply, while the rank and file of stuff moved at 10 to 15 higher prices, with 11.50 taking top. ## WHEAT PRICES UP 2 CENTS AS EXPORT DEMAND INCREASES

Turn Comes After Market Had Already Declined 10 Cents Under Last Week

BY JOHN P. BOUGHAN
Associated Press Market Editor

Chicago—(P)—Advances in price formed the rule most of the time today in the wheat market here. Upturns of more than 2 cents a bushel were witnessed, but only after the market at first declined to nearly 10 cents under figures which were current last week. One of the reasons for today's higher prices was a better export demand for North American wheat. There were also persistent reports of the presence of Hessian fly in Western Indiana, Illinois and Missouri. A 1/2 cent net decline to 1/2 cent advance and corn was the same as yesterday's, finish to 1/4 to 1/2 cents up. Corn was easier early with wheat, but later there was a good class of buying, and the market advanced rather sharply. The cash corn trading basis was firm. There was some buying also on a forecast for showings and continued cool temperatures over the greater part of the belt. The Iowa weekly weather report was construed as bullish, field work having been but little progress. There was some buying of corn against sales of wheat by spreaders. Oats averaged higher, owing to sympathy with corn.

There was but little selling pressure on provisions, and prices averaged higher responsive to an upturn in hog values.

In sharp contrast with recent experience, fresh breaks in Liverpool wheat quotations today failed to have more than transient effect in Chicago. Mentally, however, all Chicago futures deliveries of wheat except September responded with a moderate dip, just enough to reach a new bottom level under the season's previous lowest figures. Then buying broadened out and the market here went well above yesterday's finish all around.

SCIENCE PLAYING
LEADING ROLE IN CRIME DETECTION

Many Methods So New That
Investigators Are Unfamiliar
With Them

Madison—(P)—Criminal science on the part of the criminal agent investigators marks police work today, according to Prof. J. H. Matthews, director of the course in chemistry at the University of Wisconsin. Dr. Matthews frequently is called to aid in solution of crimes.

"Scientific methods are being used more and more in crime detection and new methods are continually being devised and used," Prof. Matthews said. "Many of these methods are so new that they are not generally known even to those who have the responsibility for the investigation of crime. This is particularly true with respect to the identification of criminals use fire-arms."

"There are only two or three experts in the United States who are familiar with this special technique—a technique which gives every positive identification."

"My own experience has convinced me, not only that the application of scientific methods are of the utmost assistance in the identification of criminals, but that the use of scientific methods in crime detection is still in its infancy."

"The chemist, pharmacologist, botanist, bacteriologist, pathologist, physician, psychologist, metallurgist, gun expert, textile expert, finger print expert are all contributing to the methods of crime detection."

As an example of what can be accomplished through scientific investigation Prof. Matthews outlined a case in which a bomb was sent through the mails, addressed to a man in whose hands the bomb exploded, severely injuring him and killing his wife who stood beside him.

"The handwriting experts showed conclusively that the defendant had written the address on the package, although he had attempted to change the character of his handwriting," Prof. Matthews explained. "Next an expert at the Forest Products Laboratory at Madison showed that the wood used in part of the bomb was elmwood, and that certain shaving taken from the defendant's shop were elmwood."

By the introduction of testimony discovered by various experts in steel and ink, and their connection with the defendant's shop, led to the inevitable conclusion, Prof. Matthews stated, that the bomb must have been constructed in that shop.

"In other cases finger prints, foot prints, blood stains, stains on clothing, bullet markings, certain marks on fired shells, the character of human hair, and even of the dirt under the finger nails have been used in identifying a criminal."

MANY REBATE CHECKS
REMAIN UNCALLED FOR

About half of the rebate checks for street oiling recently allowed by the common council are uncalled for, it is reported by F. E. Bachman, city treasurer. They may be had by calling at the treasurer's office. The checks, made out to those who did not enter protests at the time they paid their taxes, are for half the amount of the street oiling assessments of last year. Those who protested the assessments when they paid their taxes already have collected their rebates, according to Mr. Bachman.

REDUCE STRENGTH OF
STATE GUARD COMPANIES

A further reduction in the strength of Wisconsin National Guard units has been ordered by the adjutant general of the Wisconsin guard, according to orders received here by Capt. Clyde P. Schroeder of Co. D, 12th Infantry. The new order reduces the maximum enlisted strength of Co. D from 67 men to 65 men. However, the strength of the local unit now is 61 men and there are four vacancies which company officers are desirous of filling before the unit goes to Camp Douglas, July 27 to Aug. 10.

Daisies Offer Bright
Display In Gardens

"Daisy" is a common term applied to almost anything in the way of a bloom with strap-shaped ray flowers about a solid center. It is the type form of the largest order of flowering plants, botanically speaking, the composites, so called because each individual flower or "daisy" is in reality a composite arrangement of a great many small flowers in one head. Daisies of various forms are among the most graceful and decorative of all the garden flowers and always popular for cutting.

South Africa has given us some fine daisy types and others are on the way. We have two South African daisies fairly common in gardens now, rejoicing in the botanical names of arctotis or blue-eyed African daisy. They are close relatives botanically and other near relatives are on the way to our gardens in the venidiums and ursumas, all brilliant daisy types.

The arctotis is a gray-leaved annual producing an abundance of snowy white daisies with a blue center and blue stains on the reverse of white petals. The dimorphoteca type tone is a burnt orange of glistening quality that has won 1 some gardeners to call them "patent leather" daisies. The dimorphoteca, however, also have white forms and a variety of tones ranging from cream to the typical rich burnt orange. They delight in the hottest place in the garden, seeming to prefer a rather dry situation and bloom very freely. They are handsome cutting material except for one drawback—they must have their sleep. So each evening the plant closes its eye and they are useless for evening effects.

Dimorphoteca Eklonis is a new white type of larger growth than the orange and a very fine cutting plant. It is an elegant arctotis in effect. The brilliantly colored venidiums, which have created a furor in England and are on their way to us, are really dimorphothecas, according to some botanists.

You cannot do better than to plant these daisies for a brilliant display in some hot, sunny spot in your garden where other annuals don't do so well.

ANOTHER GOOD WILL TOUR CONTEMPLATED

Madison—(P)—Following reports of state officers on productivity to Wisconsin of the 1929 Good Will Tour, to the southwest, another such trip is being planned.

As the legislature's sanction is wanted and there will be no regular session in 1930, state officers are contemplating the presentation of another resolution of endorsement in this session. Senator Herman J. Severson, Iowa, author of the resolution by which the 1929 tour was named an official state advertising trip, is expected to present the resolution for the third annual tour.

The first tour, in 1928, carried exhibits of Wisconsin's agricultural, educational, recreational, and industrial progress through all the states bordering on the Mississippi, south of Wisconsin. The last tour performed the same service in the territory between here and Jacksonville, Fla., and Washington D. C., and the 1930 tour, if held, is expected to go west or southwest.

PLANT TREES AND
SHRUBS IN WILD
LIFE GAME REFUGE

Officials Looking Forward to Time When Game Will Be More Numerous

BY W. T. COX
Superintendent of Upper Mississippi
Refuge

Winona, Minn.—(P)—With reference to development, a survey of the wild life of the refuge has been extended and much valuable information obtained about local game and fur bearing animals, predatory animals, migratory birds and pre-dacious birds.

The study of plant foods in the waters of the refuge, which has been under way for the past two seasons has been completed from Lake Pepin as far south as the mouth of the Wisconsin river.

This has given much useful information concerning the present state of the water vegetation such as wild rice, pond weeds, duck weeds, water potatoe, wild celery, and other similar plants.

A good deal of information has been gathered incidentally concerning wild life food in general and in the refuge territory. There seems to be no shortage as yet in the amount of suitable food produced by trees, bushes and smaller plants throughout the refuge territory.

With a view to the time when the wild life population of the refuge will be vastly increased measures are under way for the planting of large numbers of such trees and shrubs as have high value in furnishing nuts, berries, fruits and other forms of food needed by wild creatures. Little trees are being raised and planting is in progress with a view also to providing the best forms of shelter for certain species of game.

A number of small dams have been built at points where they will maintain a suitable level in shallow lakes, thus rendering these bodies of water highly valuable as concentration points for wild fowl and as marshes for muskrats. We have been cooperating with the war department engineers in working out projects of this kind.

A special effort has been made in cooperation with the Bureau of Fisheries to find out and acquire the more desirable sites for both intensive and extensive fish hatcheries. That bureau has an important part to play in the administration of the refuge.

Not only are muskrats being transferred from places of abundance to other areas where they are scarcely existing at this time, but beavers are being brought in from northern Wisconsin and northern Minnesota. We hope also, to bring in some other. Already a few beaver and other are found at widely separate points in the refuge.

The shipment of deer recently arrived at a point near Wabasha, the animals being contributed by the Wisconsin Conservation department, and it is expected that further shipments will be received from time to time and the animals released in the bottom lands. The racoon is increasing very satisfactorily in some portions of the refuge, particularly on the Minnesota side.

The opossum is gradually extending its range northward along the refuge, and these animals are now fairly common as far north as Wabasha. This is rather interesting since the northern limit of the racoon is about Dutaque.

A plan is being tried out whereby the Biological Survey furnishes wild ducks of different species to local organizations with the understanding that the breeding flocks will be turned loose to go about in the fall. If fortunate, they would return in the following spring to nest in the same general locality, thus increasing the number of local birds.

Have A Sweet Thought For Mother

Candy from Burt's Candy Shop. It's a favorite with Mother, we'll wager! In fact no one can resist those delicious chocolate creams, chewy nougats and caramels, luscious candied fruits, tasty nuts... And there's no reason why they should be resisted.

Wholesome, nutritious, delectable, they form a perfect confection. Daintily boxed in one, two, three and five-pound sizes, they will make a delightful gift for Mother. We send by parcel post to any address.
